LOOK OUT CIRCULAR AGAINST 8 ACCUSED IN LIQUOR SCAM

SUMIT KUMAR SINGH @ New Delhi

THE CBI on Sunday issued Look Out Circulars (LOC) against eight private individuals named in its FIR on the Delhi liquor policy scam, including Vinay Nair and Dinesh Arora, who are currently abroad. The agency is likely to issue LOCs against the remaining seven accused later, including Deputy CM Manish Sisodia. Well-placed sources said CBI sleuths have parked themselves around the official residence of Sisodia, who is scheduled to fly to Gujarat on Monday.

Nair, former CEO of Only Much Louder, an event management company that managed several comedy shows like All India Bakchod, has conveyed to the CBI that he is in the US for some personal work and would join the probe once he is back. He is also an AAP member. Airports have been put on alert about his and Arora's arrival.

Arora and Arjun Pandey, who was formerly associated with a news channel, are alleged close associates of Sisodia, who were allegedly involved in diverting kickbacks from liquor licensees for the accused bureaucrats. It is alleged that Radha Industries managed by Dinesh Arora received ₹1 crore from Sameer Mahendru of Indo-Spirits.

Besides, Arun Ramchandra Pillai, said to be part of the liquor mafia, allegedly used to collect slush money from Mahendru for onward transmission to the accused officials through Nair. Pandey once collected about ₹2-4 crore from Sameer on behalf of Nair.

The CBI has also summoned Amit Arora, the alleged linkman in the nexus, for its second round of questioning on Wednesday. On Saturday, he was questioned for two-and-a-half hours but he "remained largely quiet", sources said. Arora is a director in 15 companies based in Delhi, Haryana and Punjab. He is a co-founder of a famous Mexican restaurant, Dos Burros, located at DLF Cyber City in Gurgaon. It was Amit Arora and Ankur Mahajan who opened Dos Burros in 2015.

Sources said Amit Arora, is director in Omlogic Digital Media Pvt Ltd, Aralias Retail Pvt Ltd, VD Restaurants Pvt Ltd, Samannat Retail Pvt Ltd, Buddy (T-1d) Retail Pvt Ltd, Buddy Retail Pvt Ltd, Buddy Hospitality Pvt Ltd, Magnolias Retail Pvt Ltd, Eastman Builders Pvt Ltd, Aralias Hospitality Pvt Ltd, Buddy's People Resources Pvt Ltd, KSJM Spirits, Blue Smoke Beverages and SAS Alcobev. Arora's partner Ankur Mahajan is based in Jammu. He is director in 10 companies — across Delhi, Haryana and Punjab. Most of Mahajan companies are related to automobiles. However, he is associated with Arora in liquor and hospitality business. Arora did not respond to this newspaper's queries about his links with netas, babus and liquor barons and the money invested in various firms.

ENOUGH PRIMA FACIE PROOF

Officials probing the case say there is enough prima facie evidence of violation of regulations. They include financial wrongdoings and non-disclosure of material information under the Companies Act besides spreading misinformation under the IT and other Acts

Financial dealings in shares, cryptocurrencies and online gaming platforms are under the CBI lens

The foreign visits and international remittances for at least 50 individuals, including comic artists, businessmen, social media influencers and those linked to the entertainment industry, are also being probed

Those under the scanner include individuals and companies from Hyderabad, which managed to get licence for sale of liquor in Delhi

Companies associated with Nair include Babblefish and Motherswear. Other firms under lens for being associated with Nair are Weirdass Comedy, Motormouth Writers and Rebellion Management

Ministry of Corporate Affairs is looking into a maze of corporate entities associated with those named by the CBI

Anand Sharma's turn to quit his HP Cong post

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

IN a blow to the Congress party in poll-bound Himachal Pradesh, senior leader Anand Sharma resigned as the chairman of the Himachal Congress Steering Committee on Sunday.

In a letter to Congress president Sonia Gandhi, Sharma said his self-respect has been hurt as the party has not consulted him or invited him to any of the meetings of the core group of the state on election strategy and preparations.

"On June 20, meetings of senior leaders including PCC President, LP leader and Chairman Campaign Committee were held for election preparations. On August 7 and 8, meetings of the core group, senior leaders and HPCC general house were convened. The Chairman of the Steering Committee was neither informed nor invited for any of the meetings held, not even for the general house," he wrote, adding that his self-respect is non-negotiable.

After Sonia Gandhi had in April appointed new HPCC president, CLP leader, chairman of campaign committee and the AICC announced eight other committees, including a steering committee with him as the chairman, Sharma had sought clarity from AICC general secretary in charge of organisation K C Venugopal on the multiplicity of committees and overlapping of functions.

"I had requested the AICC general secretary in charge of organisation and AICC incharge to clarify the mandate of the steering committee," he wrote in the letter.

His resignation comes days after another Congress leader Ghulam Nabi Azad quit as the Jammu and Kashmir Congress Campaign Committee Chairman.

Both Sharma and Azad are prominent members of the G-23 group which has been demanding transparent organisational elections in the party.

Sharma told the party president that he will continue to campaign for the party candidates in the state.

Karnataka aims to produce more ethanol, reduce petrol, diesel need

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

IF all goes well, Karnataka will be the first state in the country to reduce its dependence on petrol and diesel with the state government aiming to increase production of ethanol, which is allowed to be blended at 20 per cent with motor fuels. This will also likely bring down prices of petrol and diesel.

Karnataka, which ranks third among sugarcane-growing states in the country, is coming up with a new ethanol policy that will provide for bigger profits for sugarcane growers.

Ethanol can also be used to make disinfectants, sanitisers, medical spirit and bio-compressed natural gas.

Udyog Mitra Managing Director Doddabasavaraju, who is in charge of facilitating these industries, said there is an increased demand for ethanol after the Union government stressed on blending 20 per cent of ethanol with petrol and diesel. But none of the states have been able to produce even 10 per cent of ethanol required, he added.

"The state government, to promote its production, is providing all facilities, including subsidies. Those interested in setting up ethanol plants can also get loans easily from banks," he said. P5

Mizoram CM sorry after daughter assaults doc

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

MIZORAM Chief Minister Zoramthanga on Sunday publicly apologised after his daughter physically assaulted a dermatologist in Aizwal for asking her to get an appointment before consulting him. "We have nothing to justify or say in defence of our daughter's behaviour towards the doctor. We ask forgiveness from the doctor and the public," Zoramthanga said.

He met the doctor personally and apologised. He thanked the Mizoram unit of the Indian Medical Association (IMA) for not taking any "stringent action" against his daughter.

In a video that has gone viral on social media, the CM's daughter Milari Chhangte can be seen approaching the doctor at a clinic and punching him before those present there pulled her away.

In another video, her security guard can be seen leading her away while she continued to shout at the doctor. Sources said she got angry after the doctor told her to get an appointment for consultation.

Her elder brother, Ramthansiama, apologised.

Covid patients were fleeced ₹19 crore

SHILPA P @Bengaluru

HEALTH Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Sunday said that Suvarna Arogya Suraksha Trust (SAST), under the state health department, has received complaints against 577 private hospitals for charging Rs 18.87 crore extra from Covid patients, besides claiming funds from SAST for giving free treatment to these patients referred by the government, under the Ayushman Bharath Arogya Karnataka (ABARK) scheme.

Stating that these hospitals have been served notices, Dr Sudhakar said, "So far, SAST has recovered Rs 1,58,22,359 from these hospitals and refunded it to 403 patients." A source in SAST said the process of refunding the remaining amount to other patients was underway and it has docked some funds which had to be released to some private hospitals for treating patients under ABARK. P3

Tulasi Gouda gets bridge after decades

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @Honnali

AFTER an outburst over the pathetic condition that Padma Shri awardee Tulsi Gouda was living in, as she and her family were forced to stay indoors during monsoon with the stream in front of their house overflowing, now a temporary bridge has been constructed.

She has been living on an elevated platform at Honnali along the Hubballi-Ankola highway for decades. During the rainy season, it used to be a nightmare as the overflowing stream would cut them off from the main road. She poured out her woes with the authorities, who visited her house and saw her plight first-hand. "Water comes till our house, even if it rains for half-an-hour," Shekar Gouda, her grandson, said.

Tulasi said, "I don't step out much as I am old and weak. But my family members have to go out and work for a living."

Responding to her pleas, Karwar-Ankola MLA Rupali Naik ensured that the makeshift bridge was constructed. "We have completed the temporary bridge now. But we are planning to construct a permanent foot over bridge. Rs 45 lakh has been sanctioned," Naik said.

"But the neighbouring property owner claims that the land on which the bridge is coming up belongs to him. We will resolve the issue once the monsoon gets over," she informed.

Local leader encroaches land at BDA project

Stakes claim to property in Alur Phase-2 project, erects compound wall

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THERE was high drama on the premises of the BDA Alur Housing project (Phase-2) on Saturday, when an individual erected a compound wall staking claim to a parcel of land there. The land in question runs to nearly 7,000 sq metres, valued at around Rs 5 crore.

The compound wall that was reportedly put up by Govindaraju, who stakes claim to the property | EXPRESS

The dispute over the plot between BDA and Govindaraju, a local BJP leader, claiming ownership dates back to 2016 when it was being acquired for the phase-2 project – which has 104 3BHK houses and 349 2BHK houses. Barring a corner near the water tank, running to a length of 70 metres, where the disputed land figures, a compound wall has been erected around the entire 2BHK project, completed in 2018.

A house owner (name withheld on request) told TNIE, "The individual quietly began work on the compound wall on Friday and was hurriedly trying to complete it by the weekend. We alerted the BDA about it. They had planned to provide us a temple, playground or park here. It will be a loss of common space for all residents here." BDA Assistant Executive Engineer for the project, Prabhulinga Swamy, claimed to TNIE: "We have managed to stop the construction after he has erected a portion of it. He has been asked to come to the BDA head office with the documents that prove his ownership on Wednesday. He claims it to be his ancestral property purchased in 1973."

The BDA will retrieve whatever documents it has in this connection to establish its ownership, the AEE added.

Residents also allege that the close bond Govindaraju shares with the BDA Chairman and Yelahanka MLA SR Vishwanath has emboldened him to encroach on BDA land and go to the extent of building a compound wall. Despite repeated calls and messages to clarify the allegation, Vishwanath could not be reached. Govindaraju could not be reached for his version too.

KSR rly stn to have 1st Aadhaar unit in SWR

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

A MUCH-needed Aadhaar centre is set to be launched at KSR Bengaluru railway station in due course, which will become the first station in the South Western Railway Zone to have the facility.

Bengaluru Divisional Railway Manager Shyam Singh told TNIE, "We will be running it on a pilot basis for a period of three months. Two of our staffers, trained by Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) will be taking care of its operations. The equipment to take pictures, capture biometrics and other devices have been provided by UIDAI."

The issue of new Aadhaar cards as well as changes to be made to existing card will be done here. The DRM said that based on the response it would receive, the facility would be extended to other stations in the Division. The initiative was being undertaken in line with the guidelines issued by the Railway Board, he added. "The Railways wants to increase its public outreach and connect more with its passengers and this is a step in that direction," he said.

A UIDAI source said that they are ready to provide kits to 10 railway stations within Karnataka.

Half-built public toilet cries for Palike attention

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

ANIL Kumar Janardanan, a social activist, has been waging a relentless battle since 2016 to ensure that a half-built public toilet near the Jalahalli Cross bus stand gets completed, but in vain. With thousands crossing this stretch to head to the Peenya Industrial Area daily and the bus stop itself being a busy one, the state of the toilet impacts public health.

The toilet structure is ready, but empty spaces are in place for the doors and windows. Janardanan has shot off nine mails to the BBMP Sahaya cell, complained to the BBMP Commissioner and even to the CM, but there seems to be no redressal in sight, he rues.

"The spot is being used to dump garbage. Some also rush in and use the place to urinate and defecate. I have pleaded with the BBMP to either close it completely or provide it doors so that it can be used as a proper toilet. But there is just no response," he charges.

"Every time I file a complaint with the BBMP cell, a staff lands up and does some outward cleaning and bleaching work, and then I receive a message saying the complaint has been closed. The crux of the problem is never redressed," he adds.

BBMP Joint Commissioner, Storm Water Management, Parashuram, told TNIE, "Do share the details of the place. I will definitely alert my staff in the area and bring about a permanent solution to the issue."

Used linen thrown across berths in the AC coach of the Kacheguda Express | EXPRESS

Senior citizen loses cool over used bed linen in coach

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

CRUMPLED bed linen and used pillows lying in the AC 3-tier coach of Kacheguda Express between Bengaluru and Mysuru, made a senior passenger throw a fit of rage inside the compartment on Sunday. This provoked a co-passenger to draw the attention of Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw and others through a tweet.

The senior citizen, whose name is not known, took offence to used bedsheets and pillows scattered all over the Chair Car coach in Train 12875, which starts at Kacheguda. His co-passenger, Sahradaya, told TNIE, "The passenger was upset and called the Ticket Checker and others and gave them a piece of his mind. He threw the pillows on the floor of the train and threatened to throw them out the next time. Blankets were found lying on the floor." Sahradaya added that this is normal between Bengaluru and Mysuru. "Casual and arrogant cleaning staff expect passengers to clear up and sit," she added.

S Yogendra, rail activist and member of Mysuru Grahakara Parishat, said one coach of five 3AC coaches on the Kacheguda Express was converted to Chair Car (CC) between Bengaluru and Mysuru, to enable passengers travel with reduced fares.

"While the 3AC fare, including all costs, works out to Rs 555, the fare for CC travel is just Rs 315," he explained.

Following her tweet, railway officials from Mysuru and Hyderabad promised to redress the issue, Sahradaya said. Mysuru Divisional Railway Manager said he would get back after getting details.

Her alcoholic husband died by suicide some months ago, leaving her to fend for herself and her children.

Project Director and Secretary, People's Movement for Self-Reliance (PMSR) Adiss Arnold told The New Indian Express that on Saturday evening, the CDPO, Kollegal taluk, called him after receiving the Director, DWCD's letter.

"Today, the CDPO sent his staff (supervisor of Anganwadis) to our office to get details of Latha. On Monday, our coordinator has been asked to meet the CDPO to discuss ways to help her," said Arnold.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

22nd August : We're now heading into a new phase of a special lunar cycle, and the next period will be underway soon. This is traditionally an excellent time for taking a rest, and people who insist on living a high energy lifestyle may end up feeling the worse for it. Those who put their feet up could prosper!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The current passionate Mars-Pluto relationship is pushing you into battles of principle, probably at home rather than at work. However, relations may not wish to be the objects of your crusading zeal. You might do best to leave them alone to make up their own minds.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There's a fairly pronounced change in planetary energies this week, moving from pure excitement and drama to a situation which combines the need for adventure with sobriety and caution: a tall order! Your natural caution will come in extremely handy.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There's little change in the long-term cycle for the bulk of Geminians this week. However, the rapid movements of Venus and Mercury point to a series of intriguing fluctuations in your personal relationships. Meanwhile Mars indicates rising tension, so keep the lid on wilder feelings.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It may be another twelve months before your seeds which are sown now come to fruition. However, you should soon begin to see very beneficial results. You can look forward to the future with hope, but in the meantime you'd better pay close attention to the details.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The Moon arrives in a powerful region of your chart, bringing a remarkable degree of emotional strength. Play your cards right now and you will emerge as the dominant force at home and the victor in a family struggle. Friends may be falling out - and you'll soon be called in to play the peacemaker.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Your better Virgoan qualities are all set to flourish. You have little choice but to adhere to the self-sacrificing tendencies that you would rather forget. But that doesn't mean that you should let people walk all over you. Far from it. By doing the right thing you will attract loyalty and respect.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Challenging planetary aspects may set you on edge, but shouldn't disturb your genuine peace of mind. Perhaps you will find welcome stimulation in tense situations. A little extra stress might be all it takes to push into finally achieving a cherished goal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Certain partners have been very loyal indeed and have gone out of their way to put up with your needs and desires. However, you might be wise to backtrack and make an attempt to be more amenable. If you have made a mistake at home, now's your chance to make amends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You haven't always had a fair deal, but that should soon change. The stirring impact of Mars, planet of energy, on intense Pluto, is arousing your righteous anger. You will fight for your rights, even if you're wrong! Make sure you don't pick on an inappropriate target, though!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Venus' most powerful relationship today bodes well for love, but you do have to find the right words to say what you want. The impact on your life may therefore be indirect, but no less impressive, explosive even, for all that. Look to close friends for support.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
A perfect planetary period for family gatherings and home entertaining is now beginning. Hopefully, you will make the most of wonderful opportunities and now have your memories to look back on. But it may not be possible to keep impatient partners waiting for ever.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You can't always win the support you deserve. Of course there will be times when you don't see eye to eye with loved ones, but you must regard disagreement as an essential part of daily life. How boring it would be if everyone shared the same opinions!

Sleeping pills available OTC, long-term use risky

Melatonin most often consumed, can lead to headache, nausea

NAMRATA SINDWANI
@ Bengaluru

THE pandemic took a toll on many people, and with so many changes in their lives and around the world, many were not able to cope with it and started having panic attacks, anxiety and even insomnia, say psychologists. The availability of sleeping tablets provided relief for some as they were able to buy them without prescriptions online, and over the counter in a few stores.

"I work night shifts for almost 15 days a month, due to which I face issues falling asleep at night. I tend to consume tablets as it helps release stress and I fall asleep easily," said Abhay (name changed), a data analyst. He blamed his poor lifestyle and work stress for consuming the tablets. He said he often consumes other tablets — without prescription — which make him feel drowsy and eventually fall asleep.

Arushi (name changed), a Master in linguistics, was popping sleeping tablets for a few months last year; she had persistent anxiety attacks for which she was taking medicines. She said she did not have a prescription for sleeping tablets, but could get them because her father is a general physician and knows pharmacists.

Advocate Prajjwal Sharma said the sale of a prescribed drug in any pharmacy or online store can cause cancellation of licence, and a penalty can be imposed on them. He also said that regulatory bodies have taken steps to monitor the sale of drugs, but due to the vast online market and lack of regulation at the ground level, tracking becomes difficult.

Like Sharma, Nimesh George, a psychologist, said there is a lack of regulation in the pharmacy sector, and people tend to sell the tablets for profit. The lockdown created a sense of panic and anxiety in people, and might have been the reason to consume the pills, George said.

Doctors said that most often, people consume melatonin for insomnia, depression, any chronic pain or dementia. Long-term consumption of melatonin can lead to reduced natural production of melatonin in the body, symptoms like dizziness, nausea, headache, abdomen cramps and tremors, and low blood pressure can also occur due to it.

65 govt hospitals also charged more

DR Sudhakar said, "Under the ABARK scheme, SAST has paid Rs 391.26 crore to private hospitals during the first wave from March 2020 to March 2021 and ₹376.76 crore during the second wave from April 2021 to December 2021.During the third wave, Rs 11.80 crore has been paid between January and March 2022."

Sources in the health department also revealed that it has received complaints against 65 government hospitals for charging money from patients during Covid treatment. Besides, 68 complaints have been received against 54 hospitals for charging more than the cost of the package for Covid treatment capped by the government.

"As many as 53 of these complaints were from Bengaluru and 10 of them were from other districts. These hospitals have collected bills of Rs 1,86,79,995 from the aggrieved patients, while a few hospitals have refunded Rs 10,35,859 to five patients so far," a source said.

VIJAYENDRA STEPS IN FOR LINGAYATS, ATTACKS SIDDU

BJP leaders, including BSY, Bommai, slam Siddaramaiah for recent 'no repentance' remark

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

BJP state vice-president BY Vijayendra, who is also former chief minister BS Yediyurappa's son, by taking on Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah, who called on Veerashaiva religious head Balehonnur Sri Prasanna Veeerasomeshwara Swamiji recently, is trying to prove that he can be a match the charisma of his father as the community leader. Though the seer had said that Siddaramaiah had repented his government's decision over the separate religion status to Lingayats, the former chief minister later clarified that there was no repentance on his part, but had only explained what transpired when he was in power.

Yediyurappa, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and his cabinet colleague CC Patil — all hailing from the community — attacked Siddaramaiah on Friday for his U-turn. On Saturday, Vijayendra too entered the row. "No one expects a word of repentance from you, Mr. @siddaramaiah, who paid a heavy price by engaging in religious politics to cover up the failures of the anti-people administration and politics of his time. But, how correct is it to go to the darshan of the Swamiji and stir a controversy even there?" he tweeted.

In another tweet, he warned Siddaramaiah that people are keenly watching his politics over religion and Veer Savarkar. "Though you suffered for indulging in these issues, you are back on the same track and a trap is waiting for you," he mocked Siddaramaiah.

Ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls, Siddaramaiah is trying to transform himself into a leader acceptable to all communities by visiting the Sringeri Sharada Peetha and Veershaiva religious head. But he has provided enough ammunition to Vijayendra by not accepting what the swamiji said. When he was CM, Siddaramaiah had allegedly pushed for a separate religion status for Lingayats following the suggestion of MB Patil and others which resulted in the Veerashaiva-Lingayat community members attacked him, saying that he is dividing the community.

But his decision to please all communities came after a large number of Vokkaligas and Lingayats turned up for his 75th birthday bash in Davanagere on August 3. That was the reason he tried to strike a balance by visiting temples and Veerashaiva Lingayat heads. His every move is being keenly watched by his detractors as he may score political brownie points ahead of the polls.

"Siddaramaiah, who could not get the backing of Vokkaligas because of his differences with HD Deve Gowda, may be trying to impress a section of Lingayats. As this community is crucial for BJP, Vijayendra has stepped in to take him on," said a political observer, adding that Vijayendra is trying to emerge as the undisputed Veerashaiva-Lingayat leader like his father.

State BJP to go ahead with 'Janotsava'

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE BJP, which had cancelled 'Janotsava' programme that it had planned to celebrate Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's first year in office after the murder of BJP Yuva Morcha worker Praveen Nettaru in Dakshina Kannada recently, has now decided to go ahead with it. The convention will likely be held on September 8 and party National President JP Nadda and other senior leaders are likely to participate in it. Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said, "We wanted to hold 'Janotsava' earlier. But it was postponed. But now the time has come... so we are going ahead. The first Janotsava will be held in Doddaballapur.... 4-5 more programmes will be organised," he said. On Congress leader Siddaramaiah calling 'Janotsava' a 'festival of corruption', he said, "It is for people to judge. People will give a reply in 2023 (Assembly elections)."

On Congress hitting out at the Union Government's 'Har Ghar Tiranga' programme, Sudhakar said, "Did the Congress remember the National Flag in the last 75 years? Only now they are talking after the PM announced the Har Ghar Tiranga campaign," he said.

Sudhakar said 'Janotsava' has been organised to inform people about the achievements of the government. "We are placing before the people the government's report card," Sudhakar, who has been given the responsibility for organising the programme, said.

On Siddaramaiah charging that the Constitution was under threat under the BJP rule, Sudhakar said, "Narendra Modi has been the PM for the last 8 years and Atal Bihari Vajpayee was the PM for 5 years. In 13 years of BJP rule, has the Constitution ever been in danger?"

Declare Patil as CM face: BJP leader's dare to Cong

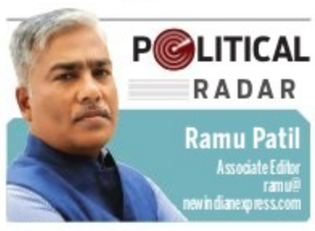
MYSURU: Mysuru BJP leader Mallesh has urged the Congress to declare former minister MB Patil, a strong supporter of former CM Siddaramaiah, as the party's Chief Minister candidate. "Siddaramaiah threatened Rahul Gandhi that his supporters will ditch the party if he is not made the Chief Minister. Why should Siddaramaiah, who lost 2018 polls from Chamundeshwari by more than 40,000 votes, only be made the Chief Minister?" Mallesh said. ENS

BSY back in action; will it be game-changer for BJP?



POLITICAL developments in the run-up to the 2023 assembly polls bear an uncanny resemblance to happenings in the state around a decade back, but with some qualitative changes that could have a bearing on the upcoming elections.

Around this time in 2012, the tenure of the BJP government was coming to an end. Congress was on the path of resurgence. Former CM BS Yediyurappa had left the party in November that year and returned in January 2014, ahead of the Lok Sabha polls. By then, the damage was done. BJP took a big hit in the 2013 assembly polls.

Cut to the present. The BJP government is on the last stretch of its tenure. In the face of a flurry of controversies, it is struggling to highlight its works and firmly set its narrative for the polls. Added to that, it had to battle a perception that Lingayat strongman Yediyurappa was sidelined in the BJP, although he never stated it. On its part, like in 2012, Congress is showing signs of putting up a good fight, though it has its share of challenges.

Looking from that background, Yediyurappa's elevation to the BJP's highest decision-making body, the Parliamentary Board, is a smart move by the BJP central leadership. It is an attempt to send a message to the Lingayat community as well as the workers, that the former CM continues to be an important player in the party's scheme of things. It is also a strategic move to counter Congress, which is making all-out efforts to woo the dominant community.

The BJP central leadership's decision to include the former CM in the parliamentary board, that too by removing two powerful leaders – Union Minister Nitin Gadkari and Shivraj Singh Chouhan – points to Yediyurappa's importance in the BJP's poll strategy.

Although Yediyurappa has been maintaining that he would work to bring the party back to power, the latest move will ensure his active participation in electioneering. Also, by having a seat in the Parliamentary Board, he will have a say in all the important decisions, including selecting candidates for the assembly polls.

In the next few months, Yediyurappa is likely to drive the party's election strategy, while Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai is likely to largely focus on administration and taking development works to the people.

For now, it looks like the move helped to boost the morale of the party workers. But, will it be a game-changer for BJP?

One has to wait for the next few months to see how things will pan out. Unlike in the past, Yediyurappa is not the CM candidate. There is a complete change in the party's style of functioning, with a strong central leadership. Also, the former CM as a Parliamentary Board member, and the party's face in South India, has to factor in the sensibilities of different sections within the party, including those who were not aligned with his style of functioning when he was the CM.

The change in the ruling party's strategy is likely to have a ripple effect on the Congress, which is likely to take a relook at its strategy. While the BJP is banking on possible differences among Congress leaders who are nurturing chief ministerial ambitions, the grand old party is trying to make the most of the situation the BJP is in. To some extent, Congress was successful in the by-elections to assembly seats, legislative council elections, and even local bodies polls.

Former minister MB Patil's appointment as chairman of the campaign committee, former AICC chief Rahul Gandhi's visit to a prominent Lingayat mutt in the state, and recent remarks by senior Congress leader and former CM Siddaramaiah and state Congress president DK Shivakumar on the Veerashaiva-Lingayat issue that hit Congress in 2018 polls, display the concerted efforts by the party to win over the Lingayats.

While the Congress will continue its efforts to woo the Lingayat community, the party is likely to rely more on its traditional support base – the minorities, backward classes, and Dalits – although they no longer solidly back the party like they once did. Siddaramaiah is going full throttle on that front, while Shivakumar will be hoping to get support from the Vokkaliga community.

Janata Dal (Secular) which brings in a crucial third dimension to state politics, too, is banking on the same factors. While former PM HD Deve Gowda and his son HD Kumaraswamy are making efforts to retain their hold on Old Mysuru, the party is also trying to woo minorities and former Union minister CM Ibrahim's appointment as the party's state president is a clear indication of its strategies.

While all three parties will continue to fine-tune their election strategies, Yediyurappa's elevation will certainly shake up things within the BJP.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

YC takes clutch of eggs, advice for Simha

The egg attack on former CM Siddaramaiah's car spurred Youth Congress members to pay a visit to Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha, armed with a basketful of eggs. They claimed it was not an egg for an egg, but a gift to the BJP leader. But their attempt to meet Simha was foiled by cops who stopped the delegation, and accused them of trying to lay siege to the MP's office. The agitators questioned police, who had obviously been tipped off about the Congress plan, as to why these precautionary measures were not taken when Congress leader Siddaramaiah was touring Kodagu," Youth Congress leaders questioned. They said they only wanted to tell Simha that throwing eggs is a criminal waste of food, especially when schoolkids were not getting their share of eggs.

Temple priest not paid ₹2 salary for 9 yrs

A priest, who was paid Rs 2 salary per month, has not been paid for nine years. Haralakote Janardhan Swami temple priest Ananth Prasad made use of Upa Lokayukta Justice KN Phaneendra's visit to the temple to place his grievance, and said the government pays Rs 4.74 paise for groceries, that don't fetch anything. Decoration of the idol and payment of electric bills is done with contributions from devotees. The Upa Lokayukta directed the local tahsildar to look into the issue and submit an action taken report before Monday. Phaneendra said he will take measures to increase his salary, if the priest submits a written requisition. Quite a song and dance over a princely sum of Rs 216!

HDK visits temples, family in tow

MLA H D Kumaraswamy, who recently returned from his trip to Europe and London, was seen at the Lakshmi temple in Yaliyur, Hassan, with Ramanagara MLA-wife Anita Kumaraswamy, son Nikhil and daughter-in-law Revati. The occasion was tonsuring of Nikhil's baby son. Later, Kumaraswamy visited Deveshwar temple in Haradanahalli, their native in Hassan. Soon, it began to rain hard, and was presumed to be "blessings pouring out on us", as Kumaraswamy said. Such an auspicious day is not available for many weeks from now, he reportedly said.

POLITICAL THEATRE

Sogadu ensures ghar wapsi for temple priest

Tumakuru: A temple priest who reportedly converted to Islam in Hirehalli village, was reconverted to Hinduism by former BJP minister Sogadu Shivanna. Fed up with land disputes with his siblings, and priesthood of Omkareshwara temple, which his father Renukaradhya had built, Chandrashekar (60) had converted to Islam on August 18. He changed his name to Mubarak Pasha, and issued an advertisement. Sogadu visited Chandrashekar and convinced him for ghar wapsi. He will again take 'deekshe' as per Veerashaiva Lingayat customs. # Congress, BJP spat over who was behind egg attack on Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru / Chikkaballapur

AS the controversy over who attacked Opposition leader Siddaramaiah with eggs in Kodagu district continues, thousands of supporters of the Congress leader took to social media and other channels to express their anger. The BJP quickly rushed to deny that its workers were behind the attack.

Siddaramaiah alleged that Sampath, who was identified throwing eggs on his car, is an RSS/BJP member, and it was a planned incident, the BJP alleged that he was a Congress worker, prompting local Congress leaders in Kodagu, including B A Jivijaya, to say they don't know him.

BJP leaders Nalin Kumar Kateel and K Sudhakar claimed that Congress workers themselves were behind the egg attack on Siddaramaiah.

At a programme organised by Dalit Sangharsh Samiti at Chikkaballapur, Siddaramaiah told reporters that the BJP is in the habit of disturbing peace, and people will teach them a lesson shortly. Siddaramaiah said he had gone to Kodagu to collect information on crop loss, and ran straight into a protest planned by the BJP, RSS and Bajrang Dal activists.

Meanwhile, BJP tried to raise a fresh controversy, claiming that Siddaramaiah had visited a temple in the evening after having chicken for lunch. Siddaramaiah taunted them, asking if a person can eat chicken and visit a temple the next day. Siddaramaiah also advised BJP not to rake up a controversy where none exists, and in his categorical style said, "Mosaralli kallu huduka bedi'' (Don't search for pebbles in curd)."

Ideology of Savarkar will destroy India: RS member

MANGALURU: Rajya Sabha member from Kerala Dr John Brittas on Sunday said that if the ideology of VD Savarkar gets prominence then it will "swallow the coming generations leading to the country's destruction". Addressing 'Janashakti Utsav', organised to commemorate the anniversary of Janashakti Kannada weekly here, Brittas alleged that the present BJP government is trying to rewrite history and the media has been made to dance to its tunes. "Prime Minister Narendra Modi speaks about Mahatma Gandhi, Dr BR Ambedkar, Subhas Chandra Bose and then Savarkar. The ideology of Savarkar and the organisation he belonged to did not contribute to the freedom struggle," he added. He said Mangaluru has become a laboratory of communal fight with hijab, moral policing, love jihad and dividing people in the name of religion. "The SDPI and RSS are in collusion and the political killing is their drama. Only the media can save India from this hatred. Media has been driven out of Parliament and those who expose the government are being targeted with IT raids," he alleged. ENS

Cong protest uncalled for, says minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

COOPERATION Minister ST Somashekar said Congress staging protest against the 'egg attack' on Congress leader Siddaramaiah's car is unwarranted as Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai himself has condemned the act.

"CM has already assured that such incidents will not occur and has beefed up the former chief minister's security. What is the need to protest when the government has taken all measures to prevent such incidents? Police have taken action. The accused has admitted that he is a Congress worker," he added.

When asked about the accused picture with a local BJP MLA, Somashekar maintained that it is a common practice for citizens to take selfies with the local legislator.

Meanwhile, the police have increased security for Somashekar following a threat to greet him with black flags. The minister is now escorted by additional police force along with commando police, police escort and a pilot vehicle.

Meanwhile, former T Narsipur municipality president Somu and his supporters greeted the district minister with black flags during his visit to Mugur in T Narsipur. The police arrested them.

Ideological differences should not lead to law and order problems: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hubballi

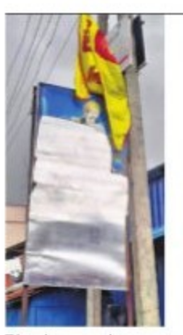
CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai has said that protests over ideological differences should not lead to law and order problems and the responsibility to ensure this lies with all political parties.

Speaking to reporters before leaving to Haveri district, Bommai opined that there will be pro and anti beliefs on noted personalities like VD Savarkar and Tipu Sultan and different arguments may exist on historical facts. "But any case must be defended using rationality and opposed with the same. Such issues must not be dragged to the streets, creating law and order problems," he said.

Reacting to the controversy surrounding Savarkar, Bommai claimed that former PM Indira Gandhi had praised Savarkar as a great son of the country. "In a democracy, the responsibility lies on people to decide to what level they can defend somebody and on which platform. If they understand this, it is possible to work together despite having ideological differences," he said.

On the recent 'egg attack' on Siddaramaiah's car, Bommai said an investigation has been ordered to look into the incident. "Directives have been given to provide proper security to the opposition leader (Siddaramaiah). However, political parties should think before politicising such incidents. Maintaining law and order is the duty of all political parties," he added.

When asked that his government still has not made any headway in implementing the Mahadayi river diversion project till now, Bommai said that the process is going in the right direction. "Forest clearance and approval of the Central Water Commission are in the final stage. The State Government will start the work once we get the clearance," he added.



The damaged Sangolli Rayanna poster

Insult to Sangolli Rayanna: One held

Belagavi: A day after a poster of freedom fighter Sangolli Rayanna was torn by miscreants at Khanagavi village of Gokak taluk, one person was arrested on Sunday and sent to judicial custody. The arrested, Laxman Satyappa Pujeri (35), is a resident of Devagoudanatti of Gokak. Residents of Khanagavi had recently named one a circle after Sangolli Rayanna and had also put a flex having the portrait of Rayanna. On the intervening night of Friday and Saturday, miscreants damaged the flex. On Saturday, a protest was staged and villagers expressed their anger by burning tyres. The police rushed to the village and took stock of the situation. ENS

A day before the assembly convenes for a special session, Kerala Governor Arif Mohammed Khan on Sunday set the stage for fiery proceedings by stepping up his attack against Kannur University V-C Gopinath Ravindran. Khan called Ravindran a 'criminal' and accused the V-C of conspiring to harm him physically.

CYCLING TO WORK

STILL A DISTANT, UNSAFE DREAM

BOSKY KHANNA

RISING fuel prices, need for better health and the aim to compete with international cities has led to cycling gaining prominence among citizens; but it is still moving at snail's pace with government bodies.

Techies who have moved to Bengaluru after working in other countries, are demanding spaces to walk and cycle. "Bengaluru is exciting to invest in and earn, but not friendly to move around. Offices which are even 15 minutes away, cannot be cycled to. This is because infrastructure is very poor. Walking or cycling is unsafe even during early morning hours," said Sathya Sankaran, Bengaluru's 'Bicycle Mayor'.

Urban development department officials admit there is demand for safe cycling spaces, not just from those who want to cycle for health, but even from those whose commute depends on cycling. They also admit that the model has failed in Bengaluru, but hope the lessons learnt in the state's capital are improvised upon in Tier-2 cities, where development is mushrooming, as in Mysuru, Tumkuru, Hubballi-Dharwad, Belagavi and Mangaluru.

"When green cycle lanes were created on Race Course Road footpath, a senior politician objected and said it was a waste of space, and could have been used for parking. Due to lack of coordination and availability of even footpath width, despite repeated suggestions and requests for making cycling a priority in last-mile connectivity, it has not picked up. With the need to create seamless roads for vehicles, cycling spaces have been ignored across the state," said a UDD official.

Directorate of Urban Land Transport, Commissioner V Manjula said they have prepared a cycling plan and urban mobility plan for Bengaluru, which give importance to cycling. Cycle lanes are also being introduced on a pilot basis in Kalaburagi, Mangaluru, Davangere and Tumakuru. "We are in constant touch with the administrations of Tier-2 cities to survey spaces for cycle lanes. While health is essential, addressing the need for the marginalised is priority," Manjula said.

Bangalore Smart City Limited Managing Director P Rajendra Cholan admitted that of the 5km planned, only 2.5km was completed in CBD areas because of high traffic and low availability of space.

According to government records and data compiled by cycling associations, as per High Court orders, 600km of cycle space is to be created in Bengaluru in 15 years. The target was to create at least 50km in the first phase in 2022, but only 30km has been done, which is also unconnected.

Udupi: No cycle lanes

Problems in Udupi are no different from Bengaluru. Despite having a healthy cycling population in Udupi and Manipal, cycle lanes have not been readied by the Udupi City Municipal Council. The two-year-old proposal to create a dedicated cycle lane between Udupi and Manipal remains on paper. Thus, cyclists have no option but to use roads, which are unsafe as heavy vehicles ply uninterrupted.

Suhas, a cyclist from Manipal, said the district administration should develop cycle lanes not just in the city, but in interior roads too, as many enthusiasts are unable to shift to cycling in the absence of proper infrastructure.

Mysuru: Few use Trin Trin

The government had introduced Trin Trin, a public bicycle sharing system, to promote health and cycling, but due to lack of maintenance, management and infrastructure issues, only a handful used it, Traffic Advisory Committee member Ramesh said.

His advice is that before promoting cycling, the government must create exclusive bicycle lanes. Ironically, the few lanes created are used by motorists.

Due to lack of maintenance, cyclists are forced to use regular roads. Contractors who were given tenders to develop bicycle lanes should maintain them regularly.

Hassan: Roads unfit for cycling

In Hassan, local authorities are yet to start the exercise of creating cycle lanes. Despite the health and environmental advantages of cycling being known, citizens avoid cycling as roads are unfit for it, and potholed roads are as big a threat as buses.

Revanna Siddappa, a farmer who cycles 15km a day, said the country can save more than 50 per cent of fuel import if the government makes cycling compulsory in urban areas to cover short distances.

Kalaburagi: No interest in bicycle

The possibility of citizens of Kalaburagi using cycles as a mode of transport is remote, as neither are citizens showing interest, nor is the government creating awareness on the cycle as a mode of transport. Apart from using the road in Gulbarga University, none in the city favours cycling. Only a few people use bicycles for fitness during the mornings.

Dr Raju Kulageri, who is with a private hospital, rides his bicycle in the morning hours. He says that people of the city mock those using a bicycle during the afternoons or evenings.

Hubballi: Smart bicycles on the anvil

Even as the Hubballi-Dharwad Smart City Limited company is working to inaugurate Savari (public bicycle sharing system) and launch 340 smart bicycles with 34 dock stations, there are no dedicated cycle tracks to promote green transport.

Anand Baid from Hubballi Bicycle Club said the number of cyclists in the city and number of club members increased in the last year due to health consciousness. Many people restrict themselves to peddling in the early morning hours due to a lack of dedicated cycle lanes, and the present cycle tracks on either side of the TenderSure road are used for parking.

Mangaluru: No concrete steps taken

Cyclists in Mangaluru point out that nothing concrete has been done to promote cycling, and the terrain and monsoon are important factors. Anil Kumar Shastri, a cyclist from Mangaluru, said: "Except some gimmicks by the corporation to create bicycle tracks, there is nothing concrete. Highways are highly unsafe, there are no safe parking spaces in the city, one can ride on arterial roads only during early mornings or late evenings. The cycling trend hasn't started here. The authorities should mark bicycle lanes on arterial roads to encourage more people to ride."

Mangalore City Corporation Commissioner Akshay Sridhar said they have allocated Rs 6 crore for a cycling track in MCC limits, and 1.8km of track work has been completed. The remaining 10km will be completed this December.

Davangere/Chitradurga: Avid cyclists but no lanes

In Davangere and Chitradurga, children and adults have transformed into avid cyclists and have formed their own groups. Some have started going on weekend rides for 30-50km. On an average during weekdays, they travel about 15-20km.

However, Krishnakumar, an employee with a private bank at Davangere, said though he prefers to cycle, the bustling city has no cycle lanes, which force him to use a car. If Smart City Limited and Davangere City Corporation fix cycling paths, it will be helpful for cyclists.

Research on to run vehicles on ethanol

"OIL supply companies, including Indian Oil Corporation and Bharat Petroleum, have come forward to blend ethanol with their products. If we start using ethanol, the country's dependence on crude oil will come down," he said. Also, research is on to run vehicles purely on ethanol, which could be the future. "When that becomes a reality, the demand for ethanol will further increase. We are gearing up to increase production and it will happen over the years," he added.

According to the data available with TNIE, in the last one year, the state government has okayed proposals to produce 5,185 kilo litres per day of ethanol from sugarcane at 18 production units. Three of these projects will be set up at an investment of Rs 5,850.18 crore. Of the 18 companies, five have been granted approval to produce ethanol, not only from sugarcane but also from rice, corn and wheat bran.

"Now, ethanol is produced only when sugar factories run for four to five months a year. If ethanol can be extracted from grains with some additional machinery, these units can run and generate employment the entire year. It will also serve our purpose of increasing the production of ethanol," Basavaraju said.

'Fan' Shah deviates from schedule to meet Jr NTR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

IN a surprise deviation from his scheduled itinerary in Telangana to address the 'Munugodu Samarabheri' public meeting on Sunday, Union home minister Amit Shah found time to meet Tollywood actor Junior NTR, who is the grandson of TDP founder late N T Rama Rao. They spent about 10-15 minutes together at Notovel in Shamshabad.

Junior NTR had campaigned for the TDP in the 2009 Assembly polls, but later withdrew from active politics. The grapevine has it that his relationship with his uncle and former Andhra Pradesh chief minister N Chandrababu Naidu is uneasy.

Impressed by Junior NTR's performance in the film RRR, Shah has already showered praises on him. According to BJP sources, their informal private interaction was mostly about the success of RRR.

However, Shah did not meet RRR director S S Rajamouli, despite nominating the his father S S Vijayendra Prasad to the Rajya Sabha recently. It let to speculation on the possible political content in the talks Shah had with Junior NTR. Speculation is rife that the BJP would want to use Junior NTR's face value to attract the Khamma vote bank in Telangana.

Shah also had a one-on-one meeting with media tycoon Cherukuri Ramoji Rao for 20 minutes at Ramoji Film City. BJP leaders neither confirmed nor denied that N Chandrababu Naidu was present during the meeting. Shah kept his speech at the public meeting short to find time for the Ramoji Film City meet.

'Elect Rajagopal Reddy, TRS govt will be gone'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hyderabad

UNION Minister for Home Affairs Amit Shah has predicted that the TRS government will vanish into thin air if Komatireddy Rajagopal Reddy was elected MLA in the Munugode by-election.

Addressing the 'Munugode Samarabheri' at Munugode on Sunday, Shah termed the induction of incumbent legislator Komatireddy Rajagopal Reddy into the party the beginning of uprooting of CM K Chandrasekhar Rao's "corrupt" government by its roots and throwing it away for good.

Appealing to the people of Munugode and across the state to elect Reddy and bring BJP to power in the next polls, Shah assured them the party will put the state on the path of development under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

"I don't have a problem with how extended the chief minister's family may be, but why should the people of Telangana bear the cost of KCR's family, which has been using Kaleshwaram project as an ATM?" he asked. He also said the sin of depriving farmers of a crop insurance scheme was on TRS.

Reddy, who along with some local leaders joined the BJP in Shah's presence on the occasion, said that he took the decision to resign from the Congress and the legislature, as he couldn't bear the injustice meted-out to the people.

Rumour mills create more panic than leopard

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

THE number of incidents of wild animals trespassing into human habitats appears to be on the rise in Belagavi. But more than these incidents, it is the rumours which have been generating more panic among the people.

A leopard was first sighted at Jadhav Nagar in the city on August 5. It was later confirmed the leopard had camped in the Golf Course area. Later another leopard was sighted at Mudalagi and one more at Chikodi. This was followed by a deer being spotted at Bhutaramanahatti village and a hyena being sighted at Modaga in Belagavi taluk. On Saturday, some villagers claimed they had sighted a leopard in Bijgarni village of Belagavi taluk.

According to a farmer Somanath, Maruti Belgaonkar had been to a field in the morning when he spotted a leopard moving on the outskirts of Bijgarni. He immediately alerted the local villagers who rushed to the spot. However, before they reached, the leopard had disappeared.

Later Vimal Belgaonkar was working in a field in that area, when she claimed she too spotted the leopard. Shivaji Nalavade, a farmer, too said he had seen a leopard while working in his field at Belavatti village. However, forest department officials denied finding any evidence or pug marks of the leopard. A leopard was rumoured to be moving around at Basawan Kudachi village. When the forest officials arrived, they found that villagers had confused a hyena with a leopard.

Meanwhile, tension prevailed after a herd of Indian Gaurs was seen in the fields near Rankunde, Uchawade, Kineya and surrounding villages in Belagavi taluk on Saturday.

EMBARRASSING FLIP-FLOP ON J&K POLL ROLL REVISION

When the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing, policy somersaults could follow. Take the special summary electoral roll revision announced last week in J&K to prepare the ground for elections, possibly in the first half of next year. J&K's Chief Electoral Officer, Hirdesh Kumar, said the Representation of the People Act, 1951 will apply as Article 370 was read down in 2019. He said it would open the door for non-locals who ordinarily live in the UT to get the right to franchise there for the first time. That apart, there are over 23 lakh who have attained voting age since 2019. He estimated 25 lakh fresh additions to the J&K poll rolls. Kumar got his headline that lit a fire against non-local voting rights. Following a huge uproar, the administration was forced to walk back on the figure of 25 lakh in an explainer advertisement it inserted in local dailies and go silent on the non-local part during the poll roll revision. Whether or not non-locals would be added to the list remains to be seen.

Something similar happened recently with a sensible proposal to relocate Rohingya refugees in government EWS quarters on Delhi's outskirts. Had that been done silently, it could possibly have gone through as the Union home ministry was very much invested in the plan. But when a Union minister without the Sangh pedigree sought to earn brownie points for the government by making a song and dance about it, backlash from hotheads forced the home ministry to distance itself and nix the proposal.

Just the other day, the highest political authority in J&K claimed the UT had no political prisoners, adding even Hurriyat Conference head Mirwaiz Umar Farooq was not under house arrest. But when local journalists sought to call on him at his residence, security personnel denied them entry. False steps and missteps complicate matters in a sensitive UT where Delhi has always been viewed with suspicion, more so after the delimitation exercise. It's up to the Centre to dispel fears of gerrymandering and bridge the trust deficit. Holding free and fair elections without tilting the scales would be the way forward.

ANOTHER PERSPECTIVE ON THE PUBLIC SECTOR

Privatisation is not a panacea for all ills, and it has its pros and cons—this is a view alien to our times, and yet when a few economists from the pantheon of the country's central bank say so, it would create some ripples. Amid calls for aggressive privatisation—a policy that the present government has very much pursued—an advice to go slow on privatisation of PSU banks comes as a surprise, if not anything more. The alternative perspective on privatisation put forth by the RBI economists is not without merits. These economists of the Banking Research Division, Department of Economic and Policy Research, and Reserve Bank of India (RBI) have argued in an article that PSU banks in the country are not solely driven by profit maximisation (as private sector banks have been). If seen through the filters of social and larger economic impacts, public sector banks (PSBs) have scored over private sector banks.

PSBs have been at the forefront of financial inclusion—78% of the PM's Jan Dhan accounts are with PSBs. They have been more effective in disbursing loans to priority sectors (even as private banks have a tick-box attitude towards these loans) and the infrastructure sector. The article also elucidates that while private bank lending is more procyclical, countercyclical lending by state-owned banks helps smooth the business cycle. In times like these, when entrepreneurs are hailed as demigods and privatisation is seen as reform of the highest order, the article is bound to create some ripples. The RBI quickly clarified that the article's views were those of the economists and not of the bank.

While the public sector has been termed a value destroyer, it is also true that the private sector over the years has also seen many value destroyers—just look at the number of companies which have been liquidated in recent times or the list of top 25 wilful defaulters. While criticising the public sector, we overlook their impact in stabilising a shaky post-Independence economy every now and then, even today. Do allow the entrepreneurial zeal of the private sector to flourish, but maybe when people-oriented intervention is necessary, PSUs still have a strong role to play.

WHY SHOULD WE PREVENT REVDI POLITICS

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE

President, ICCR and senior BJP leader

SOURAV ROY

Recently, a hearing at the apex court clearly echoed Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vocal opposition to crass populism through freebies, rightly referred to as 'revdi politics'.

Notably, CJI caught the bull by the horns, observing that 'the court is striving for a balance between the welfare requirements of the people, especially the poor and the downtrodden, and the need to avert a national economic loss through unbridled distribution of largesse by political parties to hold on to power'.

Interestingly, not too long ago, a certain candidate fighting elections for a municipality in Maharashtra had distributed pressure cookers to women voters for free, but with a rider. While the cooking pan was distributed ahead of voting, the cooker's lid was to reach voters' homes after and only if the candidate got elected. No example is better than this to explain how 'revdi politics' is transactional to the core.

With his candid observations, the PM has initiated a welcome discussion on this important subject. Considering the growing cynicism about the efficacy of democracy all over the world, the seriousness of this issue merits wider debate for at least three reasons.

Firstly, perhaps for the first time, political leadership at the prime minister's level has openly voiced its strong opposition to the politics of freebies. The PM taking a clear position also amounts to the commitment of the BJP towards reforms to end 'revdi politics'. This has added a new dimension to our political discourse covering issues like the health of democratic polity, governance, economic prudence and a perennial conflict between the 'real good of the people and the perceived good.'

Also noteworthy is the fact that politicians like Arvind Kejriwal have joined the issue with the PM, defending their politics and vehemently rejecting the charge of the PM, making it a classic case of 'the lady protests too much'.

The second reason for the wider debate is about the tendency of playing to the gallery becoming our social habit. Politics certainly cannot be singled out for this tendency. Be it cinema, literature, culinary cuisine or fashions—what is in the interest of the people is sacrificed for the sake of market pressures.

Hence, populism is not just a perversion in politics. This tendency is omnipresent, afflicting every walk of life. In a globalised world where markets are increasingly shaping preferences, determining choices and trying to set the agenda, the challenge becomes socio-cultural too. One can understand that television channels show what people like.

But considering that they shape public opinion, would it be unfair to expect that TV channels spend at least 20% of their show time not on what people like but what people should like? In the larger context, if market-friendliness decides the content of media, what moral authority can opinion leaders in print and other media claim to question the politicians and object to their crass populist policies and programmes? Is this the reason why journalistic criticism of populist politics makes little impact?

The third reason is the depleting credibility of democratic governance in several democracies. Democratic polities the world over have been struggling to establish their ability to deliver. This is because people in many relatively new democracies realise that democracies may not bring anything new to the table. Opinion polls in several countries, formerly part of the Soviet Union, have long revealed that people there prefer the olden days—they feel democracy fails to meet their expectations.

> One of the main reasons for democracies not rising to popular aspirations is inertia on the part of politicians to educate the masses and tell them how populist politics, in fact, hampers their cause than serving the same

One of the main reasons for democracies not rising to popular aspirations is inertia on the part of politicians to educate the masses and tell them how populist politics, in fact, hampers their cause than serving the same. Happily, by initiating a debate, the PM is educating the people.

The history of populism is at least as old as modern representative democracy. The emergence of political parties as institutions brought in an element of competition only to become fierce later. In their bid to win popular mandates, parties started adopting shortcuts.

The populism of the 'revdi politics' type has been the easiest and most lucrative shortcut. In the 18th century, Edmund Burke famously said, "Your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays, instead of serving you, if he sacrifices it to your opinion." (Speech to the Electors of Bristol, November 3, 1774).

This habit of sacrificing one's judgement to popular opinion is at the core of populism and also 'politics of revdi distribution'. Giving doles for all who are formally unemployed, making electricity uniformly free, waiving school fees for all, and assuring water supply at no cost are not only examples of bad economics but also poor governance. Such decisions spoil popular mindsets leading to unreasonable expectations.

Besides, free lunches are fountainheads of irresponsible conduct of both the distributor and the consumer. Several years ago, in Maharashtra, a housing society with advocates and professors as its members had informally passed a resolution seeking free repair of the compound wall of the society against the guarantee of a few dozen votes of the residents. This was a back-door sale and purchase of votes. Clearly, 'revdi politics' is a spoiler to society as it is based on short-term entitlement at the cost of long-term empowerment.

Allowing parties to indulge in 'revdi politics' also amounts to punishing those who abide by the laws, pay taxes regularly and are not unreasonably 'demanding' in their interface with the government. Democracy is all about level playing fields, and 'revdi politics' distorts the same.

The sooner the apex court makes political parties behave and ensures systemic prevention of this disease, the better the health of democracy will be in India.

MANY SHADES OF KRISHNA-LOVE

RENUKA NARAYANAN

FAITHLINE

With Janmashtami happening last week, it was hard not to think of Sri Krishna. It was fashionable among the cool, English-speaking 'Lutyenites' that I grew up with to call him 'cunning' because of Kurukshetra and 'amoral' because of the gopis. It was equally fashionable to mock Shaivas as 'phallus worshippers'. Sometimes, I felt like Prahlad among the asuras since sarva dharma sambhavana or 'secularism' as we understand it in India, means 'respect for all religions', which includes mine. Also, it seemed the height of hypocrisy to pray in private but not know God at parties.

I grew to understand that the Shivling is a chhin, a symbol or indicator, like in Hindi puling (masculine) and striling (feminine). Some rare phallic depictions do exist in ancient sculpture but that is not how the vast majority of devotees see the Shivling; they see it as an abstract icon. From that primary realisation, the next step was towards an understanding of the truth about Krishna lore.

Firstly, he did try to stop the war. He humbled himself to go as the messenger of peace to Duryodhana and offered the most minimal terms, just five villages. But 'not one needlepoint of land' was Duryodhana prepared to give the Pandavas.

There is a powerful Hindi poem about this called Rashmirathi by Ramdhari Singh Dinkar with stirring recitations on YouTube. It's an epic piece to enjoy, and to learn for elocution if so inclined. Those five villages still exist today on the map as big places. They are Panipat (Panaprastha), Baghpat (Vyaghraprastha), Tilpat (Tilaprastha), Sonepat (Swarnaprastha) and Delhi (Indraprastha).

Secondly, I began to grasp that sometimes when Hindu theology quotes big numbers, it's simply saying 'a great many' or 'everybody' in poetic terms, as in 'sixteen thousand gopis'. The gopis represent 'everybody' or all souls. During the Maharaas or Raas Lila, every gopi felt that Sri Krishna was dancing with her alone. This conveys that each and every person has a unique personal relationship with God.

It was also fashionable to mock the incident of the gopis in the river whose clothes were stolen by Krishna, whereas it's a striking allegory for appearing before God without any defenses.

Why didn't they say so in the first place, you ask? You need a strong story to make people remember the central points you wish to make. Our ancients understood this well. That is why the stories are still around despite the colonial blight that succeeded in embarrassing some of us.

The way it works is that the Upanishads ask the big existential questions about the nature of the universe and the purpose of life. The kavyas or epics convey the philosophical insights from the Upanishads through stories—the Ramayana, Mahabharata and Srimad Bhagavatam. This is done because philosophy alone does not kindle the heart. We seem to need a Face to love. We need a personification. Sri Krishna, the Poornavatar or 'complete avatar' fulfils that emotional need in many ways—as an adorable child, a glad, brave youth, a kind friend, a charming love interest, a warrior and a guru. He is everything to everybody and we are free to relate to him in a way that suits our particular temperament.

> You need a strong story to make people remember the central points you wish to make. Our ancients understood this well. That is why the stories are still around despite the colonial blight that succeeded in embarrassing some of us

Sri Krishna says in the Bhagavad Gita, Canto Nine, Verse Twenty-six:

Patram pushpam phalam toyam/yo me bhaktya prayachhati/tad aham

bhakti uphartam/asnami prayatatmanah

'Just a leaf, a flower, a fruit or some water is enough for me. I accept it. But what I want is your love. What you offer is the vehicle that carries your love to me'.

What is Krishna-love in everyday terms if he is with everybody? The message one receives is that negative behaviour spoils life. We must fight for a righteous cause but in general we are meant to show God-love through manners at home and manners in public. The good energy that it puts out uplifts the atmosphere and comes back to us.

Incidentally, eating curd rice, a life staple, is never ordinary if we recall that this was the packed lunch that Mother Yashoda gave Sri Krishna when he went to graze the cows with the gopa boys.

It's in the Srimad Bhagavatam. Veda Vyasa, its author, says, "Vaamey paney masrula kabalam tad phalan aangulishu", meaning, 'His left hand held the ball of curd rice (on a leaf) and in the fingers of his other hand, he held the accompaniment'. There would have been no shortage of curds in Yashoda's house and the usual accompaniment to curd rice is pickle. I once had an earnest discussion in Hindi at my local temple on whether it was mango pickle or lemon pickle. We felt charmed and elated to think that we still eat the food Sri Krishna ate.

Janmashtami is indeed a nice time to renew good thoughts and tender feelings.

CBI raid & Indian politics

Apropos of the scintillating news Scam scent takes CBI to Sisodia's house (August 20). The CBI's instant action of raiding 31 locations and registering FIR charges against Delhi Deputy CM Manish Sisodia exposes the new cult of doing business within the government machinery in the name of helping the people. It is not the national conscience but selfish interests of politicians that makes the whole set-up of the government corrupt. Political ideologies and principles played a pivotal role in politics during the pre-Independence era unlike now, when power is everything.

R Pichumani, Kumbakonam

Another scam bites dust

When 'India against Corruption' was first launched by Anna Hazare, Kejriwal joined too. Slowly and steadily, AAP clinched power in New Delhi with its anti-corruption sloganeering. Now that Manish Sisodia's name has been tainted, AAP cannot prevent the chaos anymore. Kudos to TNIE which brought the scam to the fore, just like how it unearthed many other scams in the past.

R Sridharan, Chennai

Sisodia's case

Let Sisodia fight his case in court instead of making a hue and cry just to dilute the case. Why did he have to bring in Modi's name and call him a dictator? If Sisodia is really clean, he does not have any reason to paint a bad picture of anyone else. It is worrisome that the public may fall prey to all these lies.

V S Ganeshan, Bengaluru

AAP playing victim

AAP is playing the victim after there were alleged irregularities found in their excise policy. Manish Sisodia's home and 31 other locations were raided by the CBI. Additionally, the new Excise policy has resulted in an enormous loss of revenue to the exchequer—to the tune of several thousand crores.

K V Raghuram, Wayanad

The dynasty ends

Apropos of Cong may get a non-Gandhi president next month as Rahul opts out (August 21). Maybe the dynasty prevented an early disintegration by holding the party together. But having a non-Gandhi leader allows dissent, which may actually lead to some productive change. But does Congress benefit from ego clashes between regional leaders right now? One can only wait and watch.

Jayashree Thampi, Thiruvananthapuram

Not the end

Although neither Rahul nor Priyanka want to be at the helm of the Congress at this point, having a non-Gandhi as the leader says a few things. For one, it means the BJP cannot go on with its 'parivarvaad' slogan. However, does this whole situation mean the Gandhis are really stepping down? Perhaps not. Even if there is a new leader, the Gandhis may well be taking important decisions and having the final say. The Gandhis owe the esteem they still enjoy to what they represent—Nehruvian secularism and social welfare. Although BJP has managed to use Hindutva to win votes, one cannot deny that the Gandhis' ideology is still the main competitor to right-wing politics and Hindu revivalists.

'Climate change to impact 2 billion people'

Irreversible decline in freshwater storage could affect population living downstream of Tibetan Plateau: Study

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

AN irreversible decline in freshwater storage projected in parts of Asia due to climate change could impact 2 billion people living downstream of the Tibetan Plateau as it could pose a serious threat to water supplies to India, Afghanistan, and Pakistan by mid-century, according to the satellite-based assessment of water changes in Tibetan Plateau.

TWS over the Tibetan Plateau, a major global water tower, is crucial in determining water transport and availability to a large downstream Asian population. The assessment over the last two decades (2002-2020) and projection for 2021-2060 are based on measurements of water mass in glaciers, lakes, and below-ground sources, combined with machine-learning techniques to provide a benchmark of observed TWS changes, reflecting competing effects of glacier retreat, lake expansion, and subsurface water loss.

Research led by scientists at Penn State, Tsinghua University, and the University of Texas at Austin project that climate change, under a scenario of weak climate policy, will cause irreversible declines in freshwater storage in the region, constituting a serious threat to the water supply for central Asia, Afghanistan, Northern India, Kashmir, and Pakistan. "In a business as usual scenario, where we fail to meaningfully curtail fossil fuel burning in the decades ahead, we can expect a substantial — that is, nearly 100% loss — of water availability to downstream regions of the Tibetan Plateau. I was surprised at just how large the predicted decrease is even under a scenario of modest climate policy," said Michael Mann, professor of atmospheric science at Penn State. The research is published in the journal Nature Climate Change. According to the researchers, despite its importance, the impacts of climate change on past and future TWS which includes all the above — and below—ground water — in the Tibetan Plateau have largely been underexplored. Climate change in recent decades has led to a severe depletion in TWS (-15.8 gigatons/year) in certain areas of the Tibetan Plateau and substantial increases in TWS (5.6 gigatons/year) in others, likely due to the competing effects of glacier retreat, degradation of seasonally frozen ground, and lake expansion.

The team's projections for future TWS under a moderate carbon emissions scenario - specifically, the mid-range emissions scenario — suggest that the entire Tibetan Plateau could experience a net loss of about 230 gigatons by the mid-21st century (2031 to 2060) relative to an early 21st century (2002 to 2030) baseline.

The Anatomy of a Scam

HOW AAP GOVT GAVE WINDFALL PROFITS TO A FEW

Since The New Indian Express broke the story of the Kejriwal government drafting a liquor policy to favour a few, this columnist has been inundated with calls and messages asking what could be wrong with a policy that helped bring down booze prices and made tipplers happy. The fact that all was not well with the policy became evident when the government withdrew it citing a huge drop in the state's revenue after its implementation. Here's a brief lowdown on the wrongs committed by the Delhi government. The new policy allowed wholesalers to offer discounts and rebates to retailers of their choice. This tilted the playing field in favour of select retailers who reaped windfall profits with the help of wholesalers. The old policy mandated uniform discounts for all retailers. As a result of huge discounts received from wholesalers, some retailers started offering a buy-one-get-one-free scheme. More than half of all retailers in Delhi could not survive this predatory pricing and surrendered their licenses. The Delhi government, instead of retendering the closed retail zones, allowed the existing ones to double their profits with buyers from the closed zones flocking to them. The increased sales of some retailers did not yield commensurate profits to the government. In the new policy, the state shifted from excise-based revenue to license fee regime. It reduced the nearly 200 percent excise duty on the wholesale price to one percent duty on sales. In order to make up, it introduced a high license fee of Rs 300 crore per retailing zone per annum. But with half the zones shutting down, the government lost the license fees and earned almost nothing from the doubling of sales of the operating half. As a result, while some retailers made windfall gains, the state's revenue dropped to Rs 3,700 crore from Rs 6,300 crore in the previous year. The government had announced that the new policy would raise its revenue earning to Rs 9,000 crore. The state government also appears to have knowingly allowed violations of the provisions of the new policy. The policy mandates that manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers will work in their respective silos. A manufacturer cannot be a wholesaler or a retailer, similarly, wholesalers and retailers cannot get into the other two businesses. But there are examples of the government turning a blind eye to many manufacturers getting into wholesaling and retailing, and wholesalers bagging retailing licenses.

Key Conspirators

POLITICIANS, A MEDIA HOUSE, AND FRIENDS OF AAP

The Delhi government's new excise policy is alleged to have been drafted and executed with the involvement of a set of people who were not part of the government. These people reportedly worked closely with deputy chief minister Manish Sisodia, who also holds charge of the excise department, and emerged as key beneficiaries of the policy. Among them are Vijay Nair, former CEO of M/s Only Much Louder, an entertainment and event management company, Manoj Rai, who has been till recently an employee of Pernod Ricard, Amandeep Dhal, owner of Brindco Spirits, Sameer Mahendru, owner of IndoSpirits, Amit Arora, Director of Buddy Retail Pvt Ltd, Dinesh Arora, a liquor trader, Sunny Marwah, a director in companies/firms being managed by the family of late Ponty Chadha, and Arjun Pandey, who has been associated with a media company headquartered in south India. These people are considered close to Sisodia and their role in customising the new liquor policy to extend wrongful favours to select wholesalers, and managing the alleged kickbacks from liquor licensees is now being probed by the CBI. The role of two large liquor manufacturers is also reportedly being looked into. Sameer Mahendru and Amandeep Dhal are associated with these two manufacturers. Sources said Vijay Nair's company has reportedly been involved with the Aam Aadmi Party. Though a private person, Nair is said to have attended meetings that Sisodia held with top state government officials to finalise the new liquor policy. There are reports that state government officials did not like Nair's presence in the meetings as he tried to bulldoze them on Sisodia's behalf. YSR Congress Party member of Parliament Magunta Sreenivasulu Reddy has also been a key beneficiary of Delhi's new liquor policy. Reddy and Hyderabad-based company Sri Avantika Contractors (I) Pvt Ltd controlled almost one-third of Delhi's liquor vends through investments. The CBI is likely to look into the books of these two entities. The investigative agency has cast its net wide, but Manish Sisodia will remain at the centre of its investigations.

Not so 'upper-caste': BJP plans revamp of image as 'party for all'

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AFTER recent restructuring of party's apex decision-making bodies like the Parliamentary Board and the Central Election Committee (CEC), the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is learnt to have started executing some major changes on key positions in several state units, including in Bihar.

The changes on the key top posts in state units are said to be aimed at straightening organisational units and enhancing the party's office-bearers' outreach to the people in the hinterlands of states.

The central leadership has dropped an ample hint about the forthcoming changes in state units recently after dropping senior leaders like union minister Nitin Gadkari and Madhya Pradesh CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan from the Parliamentary Board and many others like Syed Shahnawaz Hussain, one of the senior leaders of Bihar unit of party, for balanced socially and regionally representation.

Sources in BJP on Sunday hinted that the major message from the recent restructuring of apex decision-making body has been that the party has now become more concerned with non-upper castes, paving a way for leaders belonging to traditionally weaker and backward sections of society.

"Now the BJP has changed its perception from once being called as the party of upper castes to now the party of all OBCs and the downtrodden people, who constitute a major electoral strength in the country", said a senior BJP leader.

As part of the new plan to make some structural changes in state units, including Uttar Pradesh , Bihar, Rajasthan, and other states, are likely to get some new and young faces on the key posts so that party can challenged the political opponents.

> Bihar BJP may get a new state chief either from SC or extremely backward communities whose population continues to play a deciding role in the state's electoral politics
> BJP source

"In Bihar, some major changes are almost decided to be effected soon from the change of state chief to other posts. In this state, a strong challenge has emerged after the break up with JDU, which has gone in political patch up with RJD recently," said the BJP source.

He hinted that Bihar BJP may get a new state chief either from SC or extremely backward communities whose population continues to play a deciding role in the state's electoral politics.

Not long ago, working on this plan, the BJP central leadership has already appointed state presidents in Maharashtra, Uttarakhand and Chhattisgarh. As of now the party's main focus is on winning the polls in Telangana, so many key changes are expected in this state.

EAM: Relations with China going through trying times

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

RELATION between India and China is going through a difficult phase, said External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar while addressing the Indian diaspora in Sao Paulo.

"Any relationship is a two-way street. We've agreements with China which prohibit bringing troops to borders. China has been disregarding that and we are going through a difficult phase," he said.

The minister is on a three-nation trip to Latin America. After Brazil he will visit Argentina and Parauguay.

On crude oil imports, he said that India was buying crude oil from Argentina, Brazil, Guyana and Colombia.

"As our logistics is improving, our sense of the global economy has become stronger. That is how we are getting crude from Latin America," the minister added.

On cooking oil, there has been a shift from imports. India was dependent on Ukraine for sunflower oil. However, the focus has moved to importing soya oil from Latin America after Russia war.

Jaishankar thanked the Indian community for serving as an effective bridge between Brazil and India. "India-Brazil ties are defined by good sentiment, great goodwill and increasing cooperation. I thank the Indian community for serving as an effective bridge," he added.

On August 22 the minister would call on the top leadership in the three Latin American countries. He is expected to inaugurate the newly opened Indian Embassy in Paraguay. The tour will be the first-ever visit by an Indian foreign minister to the country.

In Brazil and Argentina, he will co-chair the Joint Commission Meetings with his counterparts. JCMs will review the entire gamut of bilateral relationships.

BJP raps Kejri, Cong slams AAP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia indulging in hyperbole instead of responding to specific charges against him on the excise policy scam, the Congress on Sunday demanded his resignation, saying the ruling AAP should address the fundemental issue and stop hiding behind the education policy debate.

The Congress also attacked the BJP, saying a blacklisted Madhya Pradesh company that was allotted liquor vends in Delhi was a "major donor" to that party. The BJP, it said, had admitted to such donations in its disclosures to the Election Commission. Yet, the company was curiously not been named in the CBI FIR on the excise scam, Delhi Congress president Anil Choudhary alleged.

Congress spokesperson Supriya Shrinate said, "AAP must stop hiding behind the education policy as the fundamental issue here is the liquor policy."

With Sisodia seeking to spin the 2024 contest as that between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, the BJP went after the latter, calling him the kingpin of the scam. "Roots of the excise policy scam lead to the doorstep of corrupt Kejriwal. No one is above the law and no corrupt person will be spared," BJP national spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia alleged,

As for the AAP, it mocked the Centre, accusing it of playing a 'CBI-ED game" instead of focusing on problems of inflation and unemployment.

IAF team in Australia for joint drills

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE fighters of the Indian Air Force (IAF) joining the ongoing exercise Pitch Black 2022 in Australia with the fighters and personnel of 17 other countries is part of military diplomacy aimed at strengthening relations and exchanging the best practices.

The IAF on Friday said, "An IAF contingent has reached Australia to participate in Exercise Pitch Black 2022 scheduled to be held from 19 August 22 to 08 September 22 in Darwin."

In this biennial, multinational exercise hosted by the Royal Australian Air Force (RAAF) over 100 aircrafts and 2,500 personnel from Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Indonesia, India, Japan, Malaysia, Netherlands, New Zealand, Philippines, Republic of Korea, the UAE, Singapore, Thailand, the US and the UK are participating in the exercise. The forces from "Quad" nations are together to exercise again. Quad is an informal grouping of India, Japan, the US and Australia.

As per the IAF the contingent, led by Group Captain YPS Negi, will be focusing on Large Force Employment warfare and comprises over 100 air warriors, deployed with four Su-30 MKI fighters and two C-17 aircraft. "They will undertake multi-domain air combat missions in a complex environment and will exchange best practices with the participating air forces," said the air force.

Interestingly, the frequency of exercise in the recent months has been more with the militaries in the Indo Pacific, including those in the South China Sea, as the attention on 'Indo-Pacific' envisaging a union between the Indian and Pacific oceans increases.

The IAF's frontline Sukhoi fighters concluded a bilateral exercise with the Royal Malaysian Air Force named 'Udarashakti' which the Indian said will "augment security in the region." On the four-day exercise various aerial combat drills between the two Air Forces was done.

Make calls to citizens to seek feedback, depts told

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

TO keep a tab on effectiveness of public grievance redressal mechanism--Centralised Public Grievance Redress and Monitoring System (CPGRAMS)-- and ensure quality disposal of complaints, the secretaries of central ministries and departments have been advised to directly make occasional calls to the citizens to seek feedback.

The recommendation is part of a slew of decisions taken by the department of administrative reforms and public grievance (DARPG) aiming at institutionalisation of a robust centralized mechanism to address public complaints.

To obtain the feedback on the quality of grievance disposed, an outbound Call Centre has also been started. All the petitioners or persons who register their problems on the portal will be contacted to review the mechanism through the Call Centre. The citizens have the option to file an appeal if they are not satisfied with the grievance disposed, said officials.

The department has also suggested that all Government bodies may monitor grievances, which are raised in print and electronic media. Additionally, it asked them to assume 'root cause analysis' of the trend of grievances regularly so that remedial measures could be taken related to policy and procedures to reduce the public grievances. CPGRAMS, an online platform available to the citizens 24x7 to lodge their grievances to the public authorities on any subject related to service delivery, is a single portal connected to all central ministries, departments and states. CPGRAMS is also accessible through a mobile application. The status of the grievance filed in CPGRAMS can be tracked with the unique registration ID provided at the time of registration of the complainant.

The department through an office memorandum (OM) has apprised ministries and departments including state authorities about the key decisions taken to make the system effective."The feedback received from citizens by the feedback call centre will be shared with ministries/departments, which would be responsible to devise an internal mechanism to deal with the feedback thus received and to make systemic improvements," read the notice issued in the last week of July. The note further said that any grievance should be resolved promptly as soon as it is received or maximum within 30 days.

Quality disposal of public complaints

The recommendation is part of a slew of decisions taken by the department of administrative reforms and public grievance (DARPG) aiming at institutionalisation of a robust centralized mechanism to address public complaints.

U'KHAND TO REVOKE EASE IN LAND RULE

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

THE Pushkar Singh Dhami government is planning to overturn the decision taken by former chief minister Trivendra Singh Rawat to relax land laws in Uttarakhand. A high-level committee formed to recommend amendments to the rules has submitted its recommendations to the government, which are likely to be stamped in the next cabinet meeting.

According to sources, most of the recommendations are in line with widespread public sentiments on preserving the population distribution in the state. Since the formation of the state in 2000, there have been many restrictions on outsiders buying land in the state. In 2018, Trivendra, who was then the CM, increased the cap for area of land that could be purchased by investors for tourism, industry, horticulture, agriculture and energy sectors in the state from 12.5 acres to 30 acres. The decision was taken in a bid to attract investors in these sectors.

The increase in the ceiling prompted opposition from many quarters. The Uttarakhand Kranti Dal, which was instrumental in the formation of the state, accused the Trivendra government of disturbing the population balance in the hills, and resulting in a spike in migration from outside the state.

When Trivendra was replaced, opposition to this law gained momentum. However, his successor, Tirath Singh Rawat, whose tenure was not more than that of a night watchman, could not take any decision on this rule. The continuous campaigns against it then prompted current Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami to constitute a high-level committee under the chairmanship of former chief secretary Subhash Kumar to look into the issue.

The committee was asked to understand and study all aspects of land laws. Sources say the committee in its report has recommended stricter provisions in land laws. The panel is said to have suggested reimposition of the previous sealing on outsiders who buy land. Several other strict provisions have also been advocated sources say, adding that with the implementation of the amended land laws, it will be easy to rein in land mafia.

Earlier, the Dhami government had repealed the Chardham Devasthanam Board Act as well as the proposal for the Gairsain commissionerate.

Mobile net shut, Sec 144 imposed for govt jobs test

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE Assam government on Sunday took some tough measures to prevent cheating and thwart any untoward incidents during the conduct of a written test to fill up 30,000 vacant Grade C and D posts.

The exam centres were turned into fortresses by deploying police personnel, and Section 144 was clamped within 100m radius of the centres. Mobile internet services were suspended during the conduct of the test, held by the Board of Secondary Education, across 25 districts. Except for the centre head, nobody was allowed to carry a cellphone inside.

The next two phases of the exam will be conducted on Aug. 28 and Sept. 11. More than 14.3 lakh candidates appeared for the written test. Recently, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma had said his government is focussed on giving 1 lakh jobs.

"We are moving forward with a firm resolve to give 1 lakh jobs in a transparent manner. We have already given 30,000 jobs," he had said.

The CM had apologised to the people for the inconveniences to be caused by the suspension of mobile internet, stating that it was necessary to prevent possible malpractices, including question paper leak.

The Assam unit of the All India Professionals' Congress, however, criticised the government's decision, terming it "ridiculous" and "comical".

Maharashtra abuzz with Fadnavis 'move' to Delhi

Inclusion in BJP poll panel sparks talks that he may get bigger role

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

STRESSING that Devendra Fadnavis will stay put in Maharashtra, state BJP president Chandrakant Bawankule has attempted to lay to rest speculations that erupted after the former's appointment last week as a member of the BJP's central election committee, which said the Maharashtra deputy chief minister may soon make an exit from the state politics to reach Delhi.

Bawankule clarified on Sunday that there is no truth in speculations that Fadnavis is going to join Delhi politics.

"Devendra Fadnavis will soon become the chief minister of the BJP-Shiv Sena government in Maharashtra. He is a visionary leader and Maharashtra needs him," Bawankule said.

Speculations about Fadnavis' move gathered steam when some organisations wrote a letter to BJP's national president JP Nadda, asking him to field the Maharashtra leader as the party's Lok Sabha candidate from Pune.

In the letter, it was stated that Fadnavis is the man who will carry forward the legacy of Atal Bihari Vajpayee and Narendra Modi and that he has all potential to lead India as well.

"We do not support any political party, but extend all support to the person who has vision for the country. Devendra Fadnavis is one of the leaders in top leadership of the BJP who can lead the party and country as well. We urge the BJP leadership that Devendra Fadnavis should be fielded from Pune Lok Sabha constituency because it is one of the safest seats for him," the letter stated.

Sources say that the move to drop Union minister Nitin Gadkari from the BJP's parliamentary board and include Fadnavis in its central elections committee shows the end of the former's career and entry of another Nagpur leader in Delhi politics.

"Devendra Fadnvis is very close to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, therefore he has a future. After his appointment of deputy chief minister instead of CM, it was said that he has been cut to size. But this recent appointment changes the perspective. One can see that Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has not been given the place while Fadnavis has got it," a senior BJP leader said, requesting anonymity. "So it is also one kind of a checkmate to Yogi. Fadnavis' stature is bigger than that of the Uttar Pradesh chief minister and he has a bright future as well," he added.

State govt sends back ₹8 lakh bill to Raj Bhawan

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

CONFRONTATION is brewing between the AAP-led Punjab government and Governor Banwarilal Purohit, as the government has refused to pay a bill of over ₹8 lakh regarding a week-long event held at Raj Bhawan, and sent it back after raising objections. The AAP government in Delhi has frequent run-ins with the Lt. Governor in the national capital.

As per sources, Raj Bhawan officials sent a bill for ₹8.31 lakh to the state government for a religious function held there from April 23 to 29, for which tents, furniture and other items were taken on hire. A letter was sent to the state government on June 16, along with a bill dated May 11, asking for payment to be made to the concerned firm.

Sources say officials in the state government deliberated upon the head under which the expenses should be shown and the account for making the payment. The finance department showed its inability to clear it, and the bill was sent back to the Raj Bhawan.

"It is for the first time that the state government has sent back a bill that the governor house sent," an official said.

Gujarat leaders Purnesh Modi (above) and Rajendra Trivedi were stripped of the Road and Building, and Revenue portfolios, respectively, on Saturday

2 Gujarat ministers lose Cabinet portfolios

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

Months ahead of the Assembly poll, Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel late on Saturday night stripped Cabinet Ministers Rajendra Trivedi and Purnesh Modi of the Revenue and the Road and Building portfolios, respectively. The move comes less than a year after the Gujarat Cabinet, led by Vijay Rupani, was replaced.

While Patel will hold the additional charge of both the ministries for now, MoS Home Harsh Sanghavi has been given the additional responsibility of revenue as its MoS while MoS industries and forest and environment Jagdish Panchal will be the MoS for the road and building department.

The rejig is aimed at sending out a message that indiscipline will not be tolerated, as per sources. "The two were projecting themselves more than was acceptable," said sources.

Trivedi is an MLA from Raopura of Vadodara district. He was Speaker of Gujarat Assembly and was MoS for sports, youth and cultural activities department (Independent charge) in the Rupani ministry. He is the only minister who got a place in the Patel ministry.

Modi was elected from Surat West in 2017 and was re-elected from Surat Pashchim in 2012. He filed a defamation case against Congress leader Rahul Gandhi for allegedly defaming the "Modi community" at an election rally ahead of 2019 polls. His name was included in the Patel cabinet at the last minute.

Ban on collection of donations in Kashmir shrines triggers row

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE ban on collection of donations in shrines in the Valley managed by J&K Waqaf Board, which is led by a BJP leader, has evoked criticism from political parties.

The Board, which is headed by Darakhshan Andrabi, recently ordered a complete ban on collection of donations by trustees (locally known as Muttawali) at shrines and mosques run by it across the Valley.

The Board said the ban was imposed after it received a large number of complaints against some people receiving donations forcibly and through exploitative measures at the shrines.

"Despite coming from reasonably sound economic background, such people are permanently occupying particular spots within the shrines for their activities, and there are instances when such spots are being outsourced or contracted out against receipt of large sums of money that violates the sacrosancty of the shrines," the Board said.

The J&K Waqaf Board manages shrines, mosques, and hundreds of educational institutes in Kashmir.

After the ban, Board officials removed donation boxes, etc from most major shrines in the Valley.

The move has drawn opposition from many trustees of the shrines, who say it goes against the centuries-old tradition prevalent in the Valley.

Political parties have also criticised the ban saying it amounts to undue interference in religious and traditional practices of people.

"It is not for the government to decide the state of affairs in the shrines. Government must, albeit with great care and sensitivity, tread this path to ensure people's beliefs aren't abridged," National Conference general secretary Ali Mohammad Sagar said.

He added that there was no need for this "undue and harsh measure", which besides hurting the religious sentiments of people, has also shown the shrines in bad light.

J&K Apni Party president Altaf Bukhari said the Board has taken such a big decision without having consultations with the stakeholders.

He said the traditional donation collection system at the shrines is a centuries-old practice, which should not be revoked overnight. "Reforms, if needed, should be done only after having consultations with experts and stakeholders," he said.

Senior Congress leader and former J&KPCC chief also urged the Board to review the decision.

Rural teacher guides kids to teach grandparents

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

School principal Sapan Kumar is now helping rural children teach their grandparents

Sapan Kumar, who had made headlines for transforming an entire village into a classroom, where walls served as blackboards on which students solved assignments given by teachers through loudspeakers, has now come up with another initiative to take education to homes. The blackboards on walls, earlier being used during the pandemic, are now being used for adult education. As many as 138 elderly persons, who did not know how to even write their names, have been identified and are being taught by their own children and grand children under Kumar's guidance.

The earlier initiative of Kumar, who is the principal of Dumarthar Utrkramit Madhya Vidyalaya in Dumka, was also lauded by PM Narendra Modi. With most children having no access to smartphones to take online classes, teachers of this tribal dominated village were using walls converted into blackboards to keep classes going during the lockdown.

Hundreds of blackboards on the village walls were prepared using local and natural resources, such as mud, cow dung, ash and rice starch water.

Kumar says he did not wanted the blackboards to go waste after school reopened, and decided to use them for the purpose of adult education.

"More than 300 blackboards are already there on the outer walls of Dumarthar village, which were lying idle. So we are making use of them by making children teach the elderly at their homes," says Kumar, adding that they are first taught how to write their names, followed by the names of their village, panchayat, police station and post office.

According to Kumar, classes for the elderly are conducted every Sunday for an hour at their doorsteps by their own children. The stationery and other required articles are provided by him.

"Awareness towards education is important for the parents to make their kids educated. It is the largest weapon to eradicate poverty," says Kumar.

Sonmuni Murmu, a class 5 student at Dumarthar Utkramit Madhya Vidyalaya, has been teaching her grandparents for the last few months.

"I am teaching my grandparents how to write their names so that they don't feel humiliated while giving their thumb impression to seek benefits of the welfare schemes," she says.

Puja Tudu has already taught her grandfather how to write. "He never went to school," she says. Her grandfather, Pawan Lal Murmu, laughs as he says he is finding it difficult to learn how to write the name of his village now.

"My granddaughter teaches me every Sunday," says a proud Murmu, who is also the ward councillor of Dumarthar Village. His wife Mungli Marandi is also being taught by Puja.

Another elderly villager, Ravi Manjhi, is overwhelmed by the initiative taken by Kumar. "It's really a proud moment for all of us that our grandchildren are making us literate," he says.

'CBI sold, so govt asked ED to act': Bengal BJP neta embarrasses party

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

Embarrassing his own party, BJP's national vice-president Dilip Ghosh on Sunday said the Centre, realising that a section of CBI officers has been sold, has asked the Enforcement Directorate (ED) to swing into action and probe the scams in Bengal.

"A section of CBI officers has been sold in exchange of lakhs or crores. Realising it, the Centre asked the ED to step in and probe the different cases of corruption in the state. The ruling TMC is scared because they cannot settle a deal with the ED like they did with the CBI," Ghosh said at an event organised by the Ministry of Culture.

Ghosh's comment to attack the TMC came at a time when the BJP's Bengal chapter has maintained distance over the ongoing probes being conducted by the CBI and ED.

A section of BJP leaders in Kolkata said Ghosh's statement was aimed at attacking the TMC but it actually gifted the ruling party a tool to lambast the saffron camp.

"The TMC never misses an opportunity to accuse the central agencies for acting at the behest of the BJP. Ghosh's comment will strengthen their allegation, embarrassing us," said a BJP leader.

TMC spokesperson Kunal Ghosh asked whether Ghosh has targeted the BJP-ruled central government. "By mentioning CBI's deal, did Ghosh point his finger at someone within the BJP? Did he indicate why leader of Opposition Subhendu Adhikari is not being touched by the CBI?," Ghosh asked.

Adhikari, the former lieutenant of Mamata Banerjee, is one of the accused in the Narada sting operation case in which several persons having resemblance with TMC leaders were seen accepting money from the representatives of a fictitious company.

In May, Ghosh was asked by the BJP's brass not to make any comment which could embarrass the party. Earlier, he had said the CBI was not acting promptly in alleged recruitment scam in schools despite the court's order.

Meanwhile, CBI sleuths said TMC leader Anubrata Mondal's powerful network ensured safe passage for cattle smuggled through Birbhum district to Malda and Murshidabad which share border with Bangladesh.

It's all in the family for RJD leaders

Bihar politics is once again in the limelight, but for an altogether different reason this time — familial affection in the RJD supremo's family. While Tej Pratap Yadav's father and RJD chief, Lalu Prasad, has been known for his love for his wife's brothers, Sadhu Yadav and Subhash Yadav, the newly-sworn in state environment and forest minister has special affection for his sister's husband, Shailesh Kumar. It was perhaps this special bond that prompted Tej Pratap to invite Shailesh to an official meeting of his department earlier this week, which eventually brought him criticism from various quarters.

BJP's comeback plan by 'exposing' Nitish

Bihar BJP, which has been left politically isolated after Chief Minister Nitish Kumar left the NDA to form an RJD-led government, is planning to 'expose' the CM for allegedly speaking lies. The grand alliance government comprises RJD, JD-U, Congress, CPI-ML, HAM, CPI and CPI-M. With almost all political parties seeming to gang up against it, BJP has decided to adopt an aggressive approach to bounce back ahead of Lok Sabha and assembly polls. Bihar BJP plans to launch 'pol khol' rallies to apprise people about how Nitish told them lies over the issue of RCP Singh's induction of into the Union cabinet.

Taking education lessons in Delhi

The government of Bihar is aiming to take a leaf out of Delhi government's education policy. It is sending a team of education department officials to the national capital this week to study the education system in Delhi. Newly-inducted education minister Professor Chandrashekhar said the visiting team would check out the salient features of the AAP government's model of education. The education system in the state has for long been receiving flak. Even the education minister has admitted that the sector needs a complete overhaul.

Daughter of 'Putin's brain' dies in car blast

Investigators work on the site of explosion of a car driven by Daria Dugina, the daughter of Alexander Dugin on Sunday | AP

MOSCOW

THE daughter of an influential Russian political theorist often referred to as 'Putin's brain' was killed in a car bombing on the outskirts of Moscow, authorities said Sunday.

The Moscow branch of the Russian Investigative Committee said preliminary information indicated 29-year-old TV commentator Daria Dugina was killed by an explosive planted in the SUV she was driving Saturday night. There was no immediate claim of responsibility. But the bloodshed gave rise to suspicions that the intended target was her father, Alexander Dugin, a nationalist philosopher and writer.

Dugin is a prominent proponent of the Russian world concept, a spiritual and political ideology that emphasises traditional values, restoration of Russia's power and the unity of all ethnic Russians throughout the world. He is also a vehement supporter of Russia's sending of troops into Ukraine.

The explosion took place as his daughter was returning from a cultural festival she had attended with him. Some Russian media reports cited witnesses as saying that the SUV belonged to Dugin and that he had decided at the last minute to travel in another vehicle.

The vivid act of violence, unusual for Moscow, is likely to aggravate tensions between Russia and Ukraine. Denis Pushilin, president of the separatist Donetsk People's Republic, the pro-Moscow region that is a focus of Russia's fighting in Ukraine, blamed it on 'terrorists of the Ukrainian regime, trying to kill Alexander Dugin.'

Mykhailo Podolyak, an adviser to Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, denied Ukrainian involvement, saying, "We are not a criminal state, unlike Russia, and definitely not a terrorist state."

Analyst Sergei Markov, a former Putin adviser, told the Russian state news agency RIA-Novosti that Dugin, not his daughter, was probably the intended target and said, "It's completely obvious that the most probable suspects are Ukrainian military intelligence and the Ukrainian Security Service." AP

Ukraine fears harsh attacks around its I-day

KYIV

RUSSIA could do something particularly 'cruel' during the upcoming week as Ukraine marks 31 years of independence, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky has warned.

Kyiv announced a ban on public gatherings and Kharkiv declared a curfew around Wednesday's independence holiday, which will also mark six months since the start of the Russian invasion. "Russia could try to do something particularly disgusting, particularly cruel," Zelensky said.

There has been speculation that Russia will put Ukrainian fighters captured during the siege of Mariupol on a public trial to coincide with the independence anniversary. A presidential adviser, Mykhaylo Podolyak said that Russia could intensify its bombing campaign.

Kyiv authorities on Sunday banned public gatherings from August 22 to August 25. In Kharkiv, the regional governor announced a curfew from the evening of August 23 to the morning of August 25.

"We will not allow any provocation by the enemy. Be as vigilant as possible during our independence holiday," Oleg Synegubov wrote on Telegram. AFP

Indian markets: New High or Sharp Correction?

After Sensex and Nifty gained 18% from low of June 17, there are contrasting views on where the indices are heading

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE recent rally of the Indian market has taken the trade pundits by surprise. After the BSE Sensex and the NSE Nifty, gained about 18% from the low of June 17, there are contrasting views as where the two benchmark indices are heading towards.

While one section, mostly domestic brokerages, feel that the Indian equity market is well poised to touch new highs, there is wide pessimism among few global brokerages who believe that current fundamentals do not justify the high valuation.

ICICI Securities believes that the Nifty index may touch the 19,425 mark in the next 12 months, while the Sensex may hit 64,700 during the same period as the recent cool-off in key commodity prices has come as a breather for global equity markets.

"The recent cool off in key commodity prices viz. metals, crude among others comes as a breather for global equity markets, which are currently wary of ongoing geopolitical issues and interest rate hikes by central banks to control inflation. Management commentary is upbeat on demand prospects and recovery in margin profile amid muted corporate earnings for Q1FY23, which witnessed low single digit Q-o-Q growth in topline and double digit bottomline decline with pressure on gross margins," the brokerage said in a note on Friday.

It added, "Incorporating revised PAT estimates post Q1FY23, our forward estimates witness a decline of 2%. Over FY22-24E, albeit on a high base, Nifty earnings are seen growing at a CAGR of 13.3%."

Global & domestic markets have been witnessing volatility over ongoing geopolitical issues and interest rate hike by key central banks. On the domestic economic parameters front, data points are encouraging in terms of GST collection, PV sales order-book and e-way bill generation. The Monthly GST collection came in at a three-month high of ₹1.5 lakh crore for July 2022 vs ₹1.45 lakh crore in June 2022.

Sunil Damania, Chief Investment Officer, MarketsMojo, said that substantial GST collections were one of the reasons why equity markets became bullish, in addition to strong direct tax collections.

These factors indicate healthy economic growth, despite global economies struggling.

WHAT BROKERAGES SAY

BULLISH VIEW

ICICI Securities estimates Nifty at 19,425 mark and Sensex at 64,700 in 12 MONTHS

Marketsmojo pegs Sensex at 65,000 by December 2022

BEARISH VIEW

BoFA Securities sees Nifty at 15,600 points by DECEMBER 2022

Jefferies sees a correction of 15% in Nifty from 17,500 if there is a mean reversion of the spread between bond yields and earnings yields

A correction on the line?

Indian equity benchmarks fell over 1% on Friday, snapping an 8-session winning streak after minutes from the Federal Reserve's July meet called for a debate on the direction for US interest rates. This again highlights the vulnerability of the Indian equity market over global cues.

When the US Federal Reserve had delivered a rate hike at the upper end of the expected range in May and there was looming fear of a global recession, Sensex had slumped to a fresh 52-week low of 50,921 June 16.

Few international brokerages are not very optimistic of the on-going rally and expect a major correction in the near future.

American brokerage BofA Securities on August 11 hinted that there is pain in store for investors in Indian equities and said the 50-share benchmark Nifty will be at 15,600 points by December 31, 2022.

The Investors Approach

Commenting on Friday's surprise fall, Sameet Chavan, Chief Analyst-Technical and Derivatives, Angel One, said that traders are advised to lighten up longs in this rebound and stay on the sidelines for a while.

Aggressive traders can certainly look to initiate bearish bets by keeping a strict exit strategy beyond 18000.

IS CRITICAL ILLNESS COVER NECESSARY?

IN the last column we initiated a discussion on how vital Term Insurance Cover is for anyone with even a single financial dependant. It is worth noting that at the turn of the decade viz. prior to the start of the financial year FY 20-21, barely 10% of those with the means, were interested in buying health insurance to cover new-age diseases.

But since the advent of the fear instilled by the pandemic, 71% now consider health insurance a necessity. Notably, and almost overnight, 57% of those surveyed a year ago, claimed to have understood the importance of comprehensive health insurance plans. That this has not translated into an immediate increase in such coverage is both a reflection of respondent inertia till it is too late and perhaps the lack of an even more aggressive awareness program on the part of insurance companies.

FINANCIAL ADVICE

writes at www.subramoney.com and has authored the best seller 'Retire Rich - Invest ₹ 40 a day'

This brings me to a very crucial Insurance product, namely critical illness Insurance Cover. Most people tend to overlook it believing that since they have Mediclaim they are adequately covered. But the fact is, firstly there has to be hospitalization for Mediclaim to kick in, and further, there are often caps and sub-limits that will easily be exceeded in the event of a critical illness. Furthermore, escalation in Premium payable in case of Mediclaim is a given, especially post a year like the last one where huge payouts have been made.

In contrast to this, there are Critical Illness insurance policies that offer the optional benefit of covering several ( approximately 30 usually ) Critical Illnesses such as cancer, heart attack and kidney failure for a maximum of 30 years without any change in premium. What also makes some of these product offerings distinctive is that it gives full claim payout on the first diagnosis of any of these covered Critical Illnesses, even without Hospital Bills. This payout amount is crucial as it can also safeguard one's family against the loss of income arising out of the illness, that could put one out of action for a prolonged period of time.

Critical Illness policies come bundled with an equivalent Term Plan and that usually adds an enhanced financial ring around the family of the one with a Critical Illness in the event of non-survival. That the payment of Premium paid under such a policy can be demarcated and qualifies for deductions under both, Section 80C as well as Section 80D of the Income Tax Act, offers an additional benefit.

Finally, one must remember that if ever diagnosed with a Critical Illness, it can affect one physically, emotionally and financially. By investing in a Critical Illness cover, one can at least take the inevitable financial pain and insecurity out of the equation. This is because, claiming a Critical Illness payout does not prevent one from claiming a Mediclaim reimbursement separately.

So, give a fresh thought to whether Critical Illness Insurance cover is necessary.

'No plans to charge UPI payments'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

WITH concerns over likely levying of charges on UPI payments following a Reserve Bank of India (RBI) discussion paper hinting at the same, the government on Sunday clarified that there are no such plans to levy any charges on UPI services.

The finance ministry posted a couple of tweets clarifying its position on the issue.

"UPI is a digital public good with immense convenience for the public and productivity gains for the economy. There is no consideration in the government to levy any charges for UPI services. The concerns of the service providers for cost recovery have to be met through other means," read one of the tweets.

The Finance Ministry further said that the government had provided financial support for digital payment ecosystem last year and has announced the same this year as well to encourage further adoption of digital payments and promotion of payment platforms that are economical and user-friendly. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) last week released a discussion paper on charges in payment systems. The paper talks about charges on all payment systems.

What Rakesh Jhunjhunwala left for you

RAJAS KELKAR

IT all started with the term 'market operator'. From there on, he turned a 'bull' and then India's 'Warren Buffett'. The transition in the life of Rakesh Jhunjhunwala, who passed away last week, is a story of turning ₹5,000 in the 1980s into ₹40,000 crore today. That is perhaps the story of the Indian stock market over four decades. He will not be remembered just for the money he made, though. People will read about him for years to demonstrate the use of the stock market for creating wealth.

As most obituaries have pointed out, Jhunjhunwala was a staunch believer in the Indian story. He was a believer in businesses that rode on that growth. He put his money where his mouth was and imposed faith in companies when nobody was interested in them. Titan Industries, a watch-to-retail jewellery maker of the Tata Group, is an example everyone has talked about. The astonishing surge from ₹3 in the early 2000s to under ₹2,500 today is highlighted. But, Jhunjhunwala could hold on to the conviction that eventually created wealth.

There is a lot you can learn from that aspect of his life. Investing is not just about being lucky. It is about the way you shepherd your money towards your life goals. For most of us, doing the right thing when you have money matters. It concerns your ability to save and allocate the surplus to the suitable asset class. For Jhunjhunwala, stock market investing was a passion that became a profession. If you belong to that category, you can follow in his footsteps. You can start diving deeper into the financial markets and learning about timing the market. While you will never master it, you will do better than most individuals in a few years.

SOUMYADIP SINHA

If investing is not a passion or a profession, you can do simple things to create adequate financial security for your future self and your family. Jhunjhunwala was an active stock market investor and trader. For most of us who live outside the world of finance, passive investing is an approach to financial well-being. Yet, you would take a leaf out of Mr Jhunjhunwala's life if you invested regularly and stayed in the stock market. The average S&P BSE Sensex return over the past thirty years is between 13-15%. With the help of fintech companies, it is effortless today to invest regularly into an index fund or an exchange-traded fund linked to the index. That return is sufficient for beating inflation over the long term. Your ability to hold on to these investments depends on your belief in the Indian story, just like Jhunjhunwala. He also recently co-founded an airline. That is just at a time when most pundits are warning against investing in the aviation sector.

Jhunjhunwala was called India's Warren Buffett in some writings last week. From an investment tactic standpoint, that is right. He had made moves in the market when others were fearful. He had stayed out when everyone else was greedy. However, the only thing he did not have was Warren Buffett's good health. In media interviews, Jhunjhunwala expressed regrets about not keeping up with his health needs. That is another lesson to learn. Money can buy you good things in life, but it cannot buy you happiness or a healthy life if you do not work for it. Your choices will always play a role in the outcome of your financial future. When it comes to health, you need to take preventive measures to avoid complications in the future. Leading an active life and maintaining a balanced diet is essential to enjoy the wealth you create along with your family.

In the world of investment, there is a simple truth. One cannot be right or wrong. The key to success, as highlighted by the book '7 secrets of investing like Warren Buffett', authors Mary Buffett and Sean Seah point out that managing a diverse portfolio is a smart way of giving yourself room for error. Jhunjhunwala lived by that choice.

LIC MF aims to cross ₹1- L-cr-AUM mark

NEW DELHI: LIC Mutual Fund, having missed the growth bus in the past three decades of operations, has set a target of crossing the ₹1-lakh-crore-AUM-mark in the next five years. The past few years have seen the 43-player mutual fund industry growing at an exponential pace both in terms of Assets under management (AUM) and number of folios.The AUM jumped 14% on-year in June 2022 to ₹37.74 lakh crore, according to the Amfi data.

Housing sales to breach pre-pandemic levels

NEW DELHI: India's residential market is expected to sustain demand momentum despite rise in mortgage and property rates as sales this year across the top 7 cities are likely to breach pre-pandemic level of 2.62 lakh units, industry players said. After braving four back-to-back disruptions in form of demonetisation, RERA, GST and Covid-19 in the last 6 years, experts feel the housing market is now at the start of a long-term upcycle.

Equity markets may see consolidation this week amidst absence of triggers

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIAN equity markets, which have been driven by strong FII inflows and good quarterly numbers, could see consolidation this week in absence of any major triggers.

The result season is over, and the foreign investors may take a breather in the coming few days. This means equity markets may remain volatile within a narrow range.

FIIs have been generous in August as they infused $5.6 billion in the first three weeks of the month after having pulled out $28 billion in the first six months of 2022. This was reflected in over 6% jump in benchmark indices Nifty and Sensex over the past one month. While the Nifty came close to hitting the 18,000-mark, the Sensex breached the 60,000-level for the first time since the month of April.

However, analysts feel that FII buying may taper off in August going forward.

"The consistent FII buying seen in August is likely to lose steam impacting sentiments. The elevated valuations do not justify further run up in markets," says V K Vijayakumar, Chief Investment Strategist at Geojit Financial Services.

The sentiments, however, may remain positive as the festive season is around the corner, and most macroeconomic factors are slowly turning positive or less negative.

"The earnings season is over but the festive season is about to begin which is expected to be normal after two years. This should augur well for consumption-oriented sectors and should keep the overall momentum positive in the market," says Siddhartha Khemka, who is the Head of Retail Research at Motilal Oswal Financial Services Ltd.

The earnings season ended with strong revenue growth. In the first quarter of the current financial year, revenue of NSE 500 companies increased by 37% Y-o-Y, while EBITDA and PAT grew by 18% and 21%, respectively.

However, technical analysts see bearish formations in the charts with Nifty breaking the support level of 17,850.

"Below 17900, the correction formation is likely to continue and could retest the level of 17600-17500. On the flip side, 17900 – 17950 would act as an immediate hurdle for the bulls. Fresh uptrend is possible only if the index clears the resistance of 17950, which could then take it further to 18050-18150 levels," says Amol Athawale, Deputy Vice President - Technical Research, Kotak Securities Limited.

Paytm founder gets reappointed as MD & CEO

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DESPITE the general anger and dissatisfaction over poor performance of the stock since its listing, shareholders of One97 Communications Limited (OCL), owner of the brand Paytm, have given their approval to re-appoint Vijay Shekhar Sharma as managing director and CEO of the company.

The shareholders also approved through voting at the company's annual general meeting (AGM) that was held on 19 August, the payment of remuneration of Vijay Shekhar Sharma.

These were the two most contentious resolutions passed by the board of One97 Communications, and it was believed that the two resolutions could face shareholders' resistance.

However, going by the voting percentage, there was hardly any opposition to either of the resolutions. The shareholders approved Vijay Shekhar Sharma's reappointment as MD and CEO for five years by 99.67% votes.

The company in a statement issued on Sunday said that the resounding votes of almost 100% in favour of his reappointment reflects investors' faith in the company's leadership and also shows that they remain confident about the company's growth and profitability target. The resolution on his remuneration got 94.5% shareholders' approval. His remuneration is fixed for the next three years without any annual increment.

Company, stock performance

Paytm's consolidated loss widened to ₹644.4 crore in the first quarter of FY23 against a net loss of ₹380.2 crore in the year ago quarter. The stock closed at ₹786 apiece on Friday, down about 5% from the previous day closing. The share is trading 50.6% below its listing price of ₹1,560.

Doubts were being raised over the reappointment of Vijay Shekhar Sharma after Institutional Investor Advisory Services (IiAS) had said it opposed the reappointment of Vijay Shekhar Sharma as CEO and managing director at the annual general meeting.

"Vijay Shekhar Sharma has made several commitments in the past to make the company profitable, however these have not played out. We believe the board must consider professionalizing the management... We raise concerns that he is not liable to retire by rotation, and that he will get the board permanency if he continues in a non-executive capacity following the end of his term as Managing Director," IiAS said in a report dated August 9.

Paytm's consolidated loss widened to ₹644.4 crore in the first quarter of FY23 against a net loss of ₹380.2 crore in the year ago quarter. The stock closed at ₹786 apiece on Friday, down about 5% from the previous day closing.

The share is trading 50.6% below its listing price of ₹1,560, and 64% below its IPO price.

Even during the AGM, shareholders made their displeasure obvious over the performance of the stock and made some scathing comments. "The management takes home big salaries. How can a company still run losses even as every home uses Paytm," said some shareholders.

Meanwhile, the shareholders also approved the appointment of Madhur Deora as executive director, president and Group Chief Financial Officer of the company along with his remuneration. Deora's appointment received 99.82% votes in favour, while the resolution for his remuneration received 94.53% votes in favour.

The fintech company in the statement further said: "We are thankful to our shareholders for their unwavering support and faith in our leadership. We remain committed to building a large, profitable company and creating long-term shareholder value, while driving financial inclusion in the country."

Moeen doubtful for CSA T20 League

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

IN what is seen as a first major contract tussle between T20 leagues, Cricket South Africa (CSA) and International League (T20) are engaged in a battle over Moeen Ali's availability. The English all-rounder was among the first ones to sign with the ILT20, which is backed by the Emirates Cricket Board. On August 18, Ali was included in Sharjah Warriors squad for the six-team tournament, scheduled to be played in January.

And on Sunday, Chennai Super Kings Cricket Limited (CSKCL) — which owns the Johannesburg franchise in the CSA's yet to be named T20 league — confirmed that Moeen is one of the five players it has signed before the auction. The franchise has signed Ali for $4,00,000.

"We have decided to pick Faf du Plessis ($3,75,000), Moeen, Maheesh Theekshana ($2,00,000), Romario Shepherd ($1,75,000) and Gerald Coetzee ($50,000) as the four players who have been contracted by Cricket South Africa. We are also allowed to take one development player from South Africa. We have decided on Gerald, as recommended by Faf," Kasi Viswanathan, the CEO of CSKCL said.

However, Moeen's participation in the tournament is not certain as yet and in case, ILT20 doesn't agree to release the player or terminate 35-year-old's contract, CSKCL have to look for a replacement. It is understood that CSA is in talks with ILT20 organisers on the conflict and a solution is expected in the next couple of weeks. As things stand, Sharjah Warriors and ILT20 have total hold on the player as they entered into a formal agreement with the player first. It is understood that CSKCL and Capri Global – who own the Warriors – are not involved in the talks and the matter is between the two boards.

The only other possibility of Moeen featuring in both the leagues is if the ILT20 tournament finishes before the CSA's tournament. However, that is a very remote possibility as both the T20 leagues are overlapping with each other and the dates are far from being finalised.

While Moeen's reunion with CSKCL in South Africa is not certain, the franchise has welcomed back Du Plessis. The former South African captain had been an integral part of the Chennai team in the IPL, with whom he won titles in 2011, 2018 and 2021.

Ahead of the 2022 season, he was released back into the auction pool, where CSK eventually lost the player to Royal Challengers Bangalore, whom he captained in the last edition of the IPL.

"Faf has been a backbone of Chennai Super Kings in the IPL for the last 10 years. He has been one of the most consistent players for our team. We were not fortunate to pick him during the last auction in the IPL. We were looking for an opportunity and that came up in the CSA T20 League. We are happy that we got Faf back with the Super Kings family," Viswanathan said.

'To play well & lose final was hurting'

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN Rajeshwari Gayakwad left for the ODI World Cup in New Zealand earlier this year, she wanted to bury the haunting memories of the 2017 edition final and return home with the trophy. However, that wasn't meant to be. Four months after India's early exit, Rajeshwari watched India lose in another final in England, albeit from the bench, at the Commonwealth Games. This time, unlike the World Cups, they got to get on the podium and shine with a silver medal on women's cricket debut in the .

Currently preparing for the upcoming England tour at the Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru, the left-arm spinner opens up about her experience in the CWG village, preparations for the packed calendar ahead and more. Excerpts.

On maiden CWG experience
It was incredible. When we entered the village, for cricket and beach volleyball there was a separate village. When we had an off day, we were able to visit the village where other athletes were staying. Before that we hadn't seen them in person.

How was it to see an entirely new section of fans?
We didn't expect it at all. Whatever tournament or series we play, World Cups, we have seen crowds fill up the stadiums in the past. But in the Commonwealth Games, we didn't know that these many people would come and watch the matches. Every game had really good attendance, a lot more than what we had expected.

What's the one moment you will never forget?
When we got the medals, it was the first time we were experiencing it. Unlike ICC tournaments, giving medals or raising the flags, it was a new experience and something that will stay with me forever.

Was it bittersweet, to be on the podium minutes after losing the gold medal clash?
There will always be more excitement when you play for third place or first place. Silver medal is fine, even if we lose, we will get it. But the happiest would be the one with the gold medal and then the bronze medal. We were aiming for gold but unfortunately, we lost by nine runs in the end. To play such good cricket and then to lose and end up with silver is a bit hurting as well.

With serial medal winner PV Sindhu out due to injury, the onus will be on shuttlers like Lakshya Sen, HS Prannoy to step up in the BWF World Championships in Japan, which begins on Monday. A look at some of the Indian players in action...

READY FOR TOKYO DRIFT

12
No of medals Indian shuttlers have won so far in marquee competition. Saina (2), Srikanth, Lakshya, Sai Praneeth and Ashwini, who are among the present squad, have contributed six to that tally.

SEEKING DOUBLE IMPACT

There are four Indian pairs in the men's doubles. All eyes will likely be on Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty, who are seeded No 7. The CWG champs have been handed a bye and their real test could begin from Round 3. MR Arjun and Dhruv Kapila, the second-highest ranked Indian pair, will also look to impress. Likewise in the women's section, there are four pairs from the country. Upcoming stars Treesa Jolly and Gayatri Gopichand have shown glimpses of their talent and they will be one to keep a close eye on. Experienced duo of Ashwini Ponnappa and N Sikki Reddy will also be in fray.

THREE INDIAN MEN IN SAME HALF

Lakshya Sen, HS Prannoy and Kidambi Srikanth have been drawn on the same half. That means only one Indian, assuming they win, can make it past quarterfinals. Lakshya and Prannoy could meet as early as Round 3. But Prannoy has to beat No 2 seed Kento Momota for that to happen. B Sai Praneeth is the fourth Indian in the draw. With Sindhu missing, Saina Nehwal and Malvika Bansod are the two remaining Indians in the women's singles draw. Saina could face Nozomi Okuhara, who's the No 6 seed, in Round 2. Youngster Malvika will begin her campaign against Line Christophersen of Denmark.

DID YOU KNOW?

This is the first time Sindhu won't be featuring in the marquee event since making her debut in 2013.

CREAM OF SPORT

Tokyo Olympic champion Viktor Axelsen (No 1 seed in men's singles), two-time winner Kento Momota, Akane Yamaguchi (No 1 seed in women's singles), Olympic champ Chen Yufei from China, Tai Tzu Ying. # Discovering Earth's largest ocean

Presently, the Pacific Ocean holds the title of being the largest ocean on the Earth. But have you ever wondered what was the largest ocean to ever exist on our planet?

Our planet has undergone massive changes since its inception. The earth that we know of as today is very different from how it was eons ago

GEOLOGY OF OUR PLANET

70%

OF EARTH'S SURFACE

Panthalassa covered 70% of the earth's surface or nearly 360 square kilometres. According to Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission of UNESCO, at the moment the Pacific covers more than 30% of the planet's surface, stretching 19,000 kilometres at its widest point, between Colombia and the Malay Peninsula

15 JET PLANES TO CROSS PANTHALASSA

Prof Murphy explained saying, "if you were traveling by jet plane across the equator, it would take 10 hours to cross the Pacific but 15 to span Panthalassa"

THE CONTINENT OF PANGAEA

300 million years ago, there was a massive supercontinent on Earth named Pangaea which was surrounded by one ocean called Panthalassa

A SUPERCONTINENT

At the moment Earth has seven continents. However, there was a time that all these continents were merged into one supercontinent

SHIFTING HOME

As per US Geological Survey, over the course of the planet's 4.5 billion-year history, several supercontinents have formed and broken up, a result of churning and circulation in the Earth's mantle, which makes up 84% of the planet's volume

FORMATION OF A HUGE OCEAN

Brendan Murphy, a geology professor at St. Francis Xavier University in Nova Scotia said, "The biggest ocean usually happens when supercontinents form, because if you only have one large supercontinent, then you've only got one ocean that exists around it."

PACIFIC: A SUCCESSOR OF PANTHALASSA

The continent of Pangea broke up due to the opening of the Atlantic Ocean. Thus, the Pacific Ocean is a successor of Panthalassa

AN EVEN BIGGER OCEAN

Our planet might have been home to an even larger ocean before Pangaea. 150 mn years after the formation of Earth, the planet only had a large body of water covering the Earth. According to the Smithsonian Institute the ocean spanned nearly 40,075 km of Earth's equatorial circumference and the full 510 mn sq km of Earth's surface

E-partition museum

HISTORY

KOLKATA: Come next week, Kolkata will get a Partition museum, albeit a virtual one for now, showcasing the art and literature that reflects the bond between people across the barbed wires and the trauma the land endured.

Partition scholar Rituparna Roy, who is spearheading the Kolkata Partition Museum Project (KPMP), said the aim to build the museum is to memorialise eastern India's experience, with Partition.

It also aims to educate people regarding the aftermath of Partition in the most comprehensive manner possible.

"With this project, we are also equally trying to change the discourse around Partition. Because, by Partition, we understand rupture, violence and post-migration trauma, among others. It has continued for seven decades and more, and we understand why it has been so. But, it is also time to come out of it," she told PTI.

"There is also another aspect of Partition, which is continuity. Given the deeply divisive times that we live in, we want to remember that as well," she added.

POLIO IN U.S. U.K., ISRAEL REVEALS RARE RISK OF ORAL VACCINE

In a surprising twist in the decades-long effort to eradicate the disease, authorities have discovered the original source of the virus is the antidote itself

HEALTH

LONDON: For years, global health officials have used billions of drops of an oral vaccine in a remarkably effective campaign aimed at wiping out polio in its last remaining strongholds—typically, poor, politically unstable corners of the world.

Now, in a surprising twist in the decades-long effort to eradicate the virus, authorities in Jerusalem, New York and London have discovered evidence that polio is spreading there.

The original source of the virus? The oral vaccine itself.

Scientists have long known about this extremely rare phenomenon. That is why some countries have switched to other polio vaccines. But these incidental infections from the oral formula are becoming more glaring as the world inches closer to eradication of the disease and the number of polio cases caused by the wild, or naturally circulating, virus plummets.

Since 2017, there have been 396 cases of polio caused by the wild virus, versus more than 2,600 linked to the oral vaccine, according to figures from the World Health Organization and its partners.

"We are basically replacing the wild virus with the virus in the vaccine, which is now leading to new outbreaks," said Scott Barrett, a Columbia University professor who has studied polio eradication. "I would assume that countries like the UK and the US will be able to stop transmission quite quickly, but we also thought that about monkeypox."

The latest incidents represent the first time in several years that vaccine-connected polio virus has turned up in rich countries.

Earlier this year, officials in Israel detected polio in an unvaccinated 3-year-old, who suffered paralysis. Several other children, nearly all of them unvaccinated, were found to have the virus but no symptoms.

In June, British authorities reported finding evidence in sewage that the virus was spreading, though no infections in people were identified. Last week, the government said all children in London ages 1 to 9 would be offered a booster shot.

In the US, an unvaccinated young adult suffered paralysis in his legs after being infected with polio, New York officials revealed last month. The virus has also shown up in New York sewers, suggesting it is spreading.

But officials said they are not planning a booster campaign because they believe the state's high vaccination rate should offer enough protection. Genetic analyses showed that the viruses in the three countries were all "vaccine-derived," meaning that they were mutated versions of a virus that originated in the oral vaccine.

The oral vaccine at issue has been used since 1988 because it is cheap, easy to administer—two drops are put directly into children's mouths—and better at protecting entire populations where polio is spreading. It contains a weakened form of the live virus.

But it can also cause polio in about two to four children per 2 million doses.

(Four doses are required to be fully immunised.) In extremely rare cases, the weakened virus can also sometimes mutate into a more dangerous form and spark outbreaks, especially in places with poor sanitation and low vaccination levels.

These outbreaks typically begin when people who are vaccinated shed live virus from the vaccine in their feces.

From there, the virus can spread within the community and, over time, turn into a form that can paralyse people and start new epidemics.

Hawaii to end strife over Mauna Kea

RIGHTS

HONOLULU : For more than 50 years, telescopes and the needs of astronomers have dominated the summit of Mauna Kea, a mountain sacred to Native Hawaiians that's also one of the finest places in the world to study the night sky.

That's now changing with a new state law saying Mauna Kea must be protected for future generations and that science must be balanced with culture and the environment. Native Hawaiian cultural experts will have voting seats on a new governing body, instead of merely advising the summit's managers as they do now.

The shift comes after thousands of protesters camped on the mountain three years ago to block the construction of a state-of-the-art observatory, jolting policymakers and astronomers into realising the status quo had to change.

There's a lot at stake: Native Hawaiian advocates want to protect a site of great spiritual importance.

Astronomers hope they'll be able to renew leases for state land underneath their observatories, due to expire in 11 years, and continue making revolutionary scientific discoveries for decades to come.

Business and political leaders are eager for astronomy to support well-paying jobs in a state that has long struggled to diversify its tourism-dependent economy.

To top if off, the new authority may offer a first-in-the-world test case for whether astronomers can find a way to respectfully and responsibly study the universe from Indigenous and culturally significant lands.

"We've been here for centuries. We are not gone; we are still here. And we have knowledge that would produce a feasible management solution that would be more inclusive," said Shane Palacat-Nelson, a Native Hawaiian who had helped to draft a report that laid the foundation for the new law.

Wancho tribe to digitise their heritage

CULTURE

ITANAGAR: The elders of the Wancho community in a remote district of Arunachal Pradesh have taken up the task of recording their age-old folktales in digitised form with the help of a UK-based researcher.

The researcher, Tara Douglas, who spent over three years with the community elders and workers in Longding district to document the folktales, is helping them to digitally archive the folklores. The Wanchos have a rich tradition of oral stories, memories, and songs and Douglas was invited to assist them to make the recordings.

The knowledge of ancestors that have accumulated over generations is a record of life as it has been lived for centuries in this little-known area of the Patkai hills.

The researcher was introduced to the community when she first visited Kamhua Noknu in 2019 and has since then been working with local project partners to record, translate and catalogue the material.

UNESCO-listed park burned

WILDFIRE

More than 10% of a UNESCO-listed biosphere reserve has been destroyed by fires that tore through northeastern Algeria, killing at least 38 people, an expert told AFP on Saturday. The figure cited by Rafik Baba Ahmed, former director of the El Kala Biosphere Reserve, means the burned area of the park alone is almost double what the civil defence service said has been destroyed throughout the country. Algeria's northeast was particularly hard-hit by blazes exacerbated by climate change, but the fire service on Saturday said most of the fires there had been put out.

China plans cloud seeding

ENVIRONMENT

China says it will try to protect its grain harvest from record-setting drought by using chemicals to generate rain, while factories in the southwest waited Sunday to see whether they would be shut down for another week due to shortages of water to generate hydropower. Authorities will take steps to "ensure the autumn grain harvest," which is 75% of China's annual total, said Agriculture Minister Tang Renjian. Authorities will "try to increase rain" by seeding clouds with chemicals and spraying crops with a "water retaining agent" to limit evaporation.

INNOVATIVE RESEARCH

Rat race: What rodent drivers can teach us about mental health

EXPERIMENT

RICHMOND: "Black Tail" is up first, taking a few seconds to sniff her surroundings before placing her paw on a lever and zooming away.

After storming to the finish line, she devours a well-earned Froot Loop hanging on a "treat tree." Black Tail is one of the University of Richmond's rat drivers—a group that first dazzled the world with their ability to operate tiny cars back in the year 2019.

Now, the rodents serve as ambassadors for the school's Behavioral Neuroscience Laboratory, headed by Professor Kelly Lambert. "It gets people's attention about how clever and teachable these animals are," explained Lambert, who has to balance her affection for the furry speedsters with the need for scientific detachment—naming them only by the Sharpie colours that mark their tails. The idea of racing rodents started out as a playful challenge from a colleague.

But far from being a novelty act, the animals are part of a boundary-pushing project exploring the ways in which environmental enrichment sculpts the brain—and could in turn hold potential for solving human mental health challenges.

For Lambert, one of the great failings of modern medicine has been its inability to cure mental illness through drugs, even as pharmaceutical companies have reaped in huge profits. These pharmaceutical approaches have faced increasing scrutiny since a landmark study published in July questioned the theory that chemical imbalances, especially a lack of serotonin, cause depression.

Instead, Lambert sees behaviour therapy as the key to treating the mind, which is where studying fellow mammals comes in. "Our brains are changing, from the womb to the tomb," she said. "If we have some type of engaging life, this is probably important and related to depression."

A previous experiment of hers had split rats into groups of "workers," who were assigned an effort-based reward task of digging through dirt mounds for a Froot Loop—or a control group of "trust fund" rats that were simply handed over treats.

When challenged with stressful tasks, the worker rats persisted longer than those conditioned to remain in a state of what psychologists call "learned helplessness."

Rats that learned to drive also had biomarkers of greater resilience and lowered stress—which Lambert suggests might be linked to the satisfaction of acquiring a new skill, like a human mastering a new piano piece.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

Standup comedian Munawar Faruqui's show was cancelled in Bengaluru for a second time because the organisers had not sought permission from the police. City comedians speak to CE, raising concerns on restrictions on the freedom of expression

An artiste should not be forced to quit his career. He has an audience base who wants to watch him. That's his bread and butter. By not letting him do shows, it is like taking away his right to earn a livelihood. — Pronoy Chowdhury

Coming from a comedy background myself, I've always thought it is wrong to let politics bleed into your comedy. We can't risk mixing the two, because comedy is done to just have a few laughs and forget about it. Talking about religion is even trickier, it is overrated to bring in religion in comedy. At the end of the day, the audience has a right to choose what they want to see on stage.

— Sunetra Pandit

It is very sad that an artiste whose entire life is based on touring has to face this time and again. It would be great if a virtual route could be taken to not let the tickets go waste and let the audience get the show they wanted to watch. It should be the audience's decision to watch or miss a show. Not someone else's. By depriving the audience of the show, they are only increasing the curiosity of his material and ensuring he sells out auditoria. This is, in fact, acting as a great publicity strategy for Munawar despite believing the absolute opposite.

— Bindu Rao

Comedy is a profession involving people who run their homes based on earnings from these shows. It's unfair to these professionals. The concerns around the show are mostly bundled under the elusive term "public safety." Wouldn't it be more prudent to figure out solutions rather than cancel events? If I am hoping for the freedom of expression to express dissent, the entity I am expressing dissent against has the freedom of expression to lash back. As long as we understand that dynamic, we will be able to set aside corrosive emotions and express more articulately to defend whichever argument we are placing forth. Not letting someone perform their art makes very little sense in today's world where access to someone's art is just a few clicks away. — Shrirupa Sengupta

A comedian's responsibility is to perform a show that gives the audience the best bang for the buck. Knowing the vibe of the audience, setting a show that is not crowd specific and showing them a good time is the priority. Making a political statement by doing standup comedy, I'm not so sure about that. Sometimes it is our job to modify our comedy in a certain way so that it is acceptable to a diverse audience. There's an abundance of sensitive topics and if comedians are careful in their approach, they can have a jolly audience. At the end of the day, that's our job, to make people laugh. — Pavan Venugopal

You can make a number of jokes on potholes, bad roads or politicians being corrupt. These are things you can poke fun at. Nobody is stopping us from doing this. Being a Kannada standup comedian and having done 200 shows, what I have figured out is that the audience is not really exposed to liberal topics. We need to ease in some subjects gradually. However, I believe that if the audience is not agreeing with you, then there is something wrong with your content/ jokes.

— Karthik Pattar

I just hope that there is a space where comedians won't get detained for saying what they have to say and there is some kind of understanding. Just because you have the liberty to say anything on stage, doesn't mean you go up and yap. You have to have the intent of making the crowd laugh. So as long as that is happening, you should have the liberty to do it.

After a two-year hiatus, the Bengaluru Poetry Festival is back to embrace poets & poetry

FOR BETTER VERSE

TUNIR BISWAS

THE Bengaluru Poetry Festival (BPF) is back on the live stage. After two pandemic-ridden years, poets will once again have the opportunity to gather in front of an audience in the sixth rendition of this festival, to be held on August 27 and 28 at The Leela Palace Bangalore, Old Airport Road. Starting in 2016, BPF is an art festival celebrating poetry and aims to provide a cultural experience for both the audience and participants.

The idea for this poetry-exclusive festival first emerged when Subodh Sankar and his wife Lakshmi Subodh saw many poetry events hosted at their bookstore and cultural space Atta Galatta run successfully. "In literature festivals, the space for poetry was very limited. But poetry was well and alive in the art scene. So that's when we thought we'd create a platform that would be exclusively dedicated to poetry," says Sankar.

Since 2016, the previous four live renditions (the 2020 rendition was online) of this festival have been attended by over 5,000 people in total. The event also hosts activities for children despite largely being catered toward an adult audience. Acclaimed Kannada poet Pratibha Nandakumar has been attending the BPF since its inception. "I have been part of this festival since its beginning and I consider myself a part of the team. The collective love for poetry draws me to this festival every year," says Nandakumar.

Aside from celebrating poetry, the festival also celebrates freedom. There are no restrictions on languages and various reinvented forms of performing are encouraged. "BPF is extremely open to any avant-garde presentation of poetry. So, if I want to present a poem differently, I'm always certain I'll find the opportunity to do so in this festival," says Nandakumar, whose new book is being launched at this year's BPF as well as a poetry chapbook, for which she collaborated with the poet Mani Rao.

The festival organisers and many poets attribute much of the success of this festival to the city of Bengaluru. "Bengaluru is a self-aware city, invested very much in creative growth. The crowd here, however, is sensitive and open. Nowhere else would have the Bengaluru Poetry Festival been such a quivering success because elsewhere people can tend to be a little preoccupied," says festival director Shinie Antony.

English-Haibun poet Shobhana Kumar, who will also be attending this year's festival, says, "The Bengaluru audience is a great audience for poets. In 2016, when I took part in the inaugural festival, I remember the Leela Palace was packed on Saturday and Sunday mornings. I don't think you see that kind of crowd anywhere else. This city embraces art very well."

FIT BIT

UPAVISTHA MARJARYASANA

(SEATED CAT POSE)

This pose is a nice start to a yoga practice. Generally, it is practised as a transition pose for many Vinyasa Yoga sequences that help increase flexibility around the spine and neck, and as a follow-up pose to relax the muscles, calming the nervous system. A gentle, seated forward bend boosts energy throughout the body.

STEPS

- Perform the Seated Cow Pose. Inhale, expand the chest and the shoulders.
- Then, exhale, take the belly in and move the spine in an outward motion while curving the back.
- After that, inhale, loosen the chest and neck. Exhale, pull the belly in and lift the pelvis.
- Inhale & exhale; stay here for about six breaths.
- Make sure there is less pressure at the pelvis and the breathing is slow and steady.
- Sitting on a yoga block or cushion is a better option.
- This is a great way to massage the internal organs while also connecting to them while breathing.
- Take this practice to a spiritual level where with the breathing process the mind imagines the connections with the reproductive organs.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and strengthens the back, neck, and shoulders.
- Enhances the flexibility of the spine and neck especially for seniors or those who can't get up or walk around.
- Stimulates the digestive fire and reproductive organs. Helps combat constipation, period cramping, post-partum healing, and menopause.
- Breath awareness enhances respiratory functioning.
- Improves blood circulation to the discs between the vertebrae.
- Improves efficiency of the spinal nerves. Soothes the muscles around the spine.
- Works wonders for people with cervical issues and with neck, shoulder, and lower back pain.

LIMITATIONS

People with chronic lower back pain or severe backache, avoid this. Those with weak knees or knee arthritis, those who find it difficult to sit on the floor, especially seniors, should use a chair.

People with high BP, vertigo, or pain in the chest, rib cage, or abdomen, practise slowly. Pregnant women must avoid.

People recovering from an injury in the joints, muscles, ligaments of the hips, knees, back, shoulders, pine, or pelvic joint, or have had abdominal surgery should take it slow or practise under guidance.

NETFLIX HAS VIDEO GAMES?

@quofles

(This economics graduate spends her leisure time preparing for the zombie apocalypse)

last year, Netflix decided to roll out games for its iOS and Android app. The app has a dedicated row with a list of games available for a subscribed user to download and play. Their aim was to provide and design games for every kind of player. Some of these games are mildly related to Netflix shows — they have two games based off Stranger Things. Unfortunately, the statistics are in, and in fact, only a small percentage of Netflix users use these apps. So, I decided to test if any of them are good.

This week, I played 'Before your Eyes'. I did play this a year ago on the PC when it came out, but it wasn't particularly good on the computer. And I couldn't finish the game although it was a truly short one with an average completion time of less than two hours. I was therefore, surprised at how well this game translates to a mobile format. 'Before your Eyes' falls more into the realm of "interactive media", than a typical mobile game that involves action and button clicking — making it suitable for beginners and non-gamers.

The game starts in the afterlife. I am a floating ball in an endless sea of spirits. A ferryman picks me up and advises me to uncover some of my memories from my past. It's the only way he can help me (the protagonist) pass on. I agree, and must therefore, see flashes of what my life was, to find acceptance in the series of events. The game starts with memories from birth. It takes me through the story of the protagonist in a first-person perspective. It appears that I have a quiet life, filled with art and music. As a narrative-driven game, I experience the story in a linear way..

But there's a twist. And the twist is the gameplay gimmick that this story uses. The game detects the movement of our eyes. Every time I blink, the story fast forwards to the next core event. So, if I want to experience the sequence of events that led up to the protagonist's death, I must keep my eyes open for as long as I can. And this works to the game's credit. It made the experience so immersive, that at the end of the short game, my eyes were tearing up for more than just one reason.

'Before your Eyes" is an excellent story, and is worth a try if you are subscribed to Netflix and have the phone app.

In addition to classes & extra-curricular activities, students are pursuing entrepreneurship vigorously, earning up to ₹30,000

Apart from the financial freedom, I love working in the industry, which gives me a perspective on the theory I study in college

S Chaithanya, student

DIYA MARIAM JIMMY

MEETING experienced people and getting exposure in the field when I'm in college will give me an edge over others. The added income is also beneficial, and I love the financial freedom it brings me at such an early age," says Shefali Rajan, a student at St. Joseph's University.

Like Rajan, several other students too are including a side hustle in their day-to-day activities. In her second year of BA in Visual Communication, Rajan has monetised her writing skills by becoming a copywriter. What was born out of boredom during the pandemic, where she worked on designs for a friend for free, slowly turned into a part-time job. Intrigued by such a mode of working and earning, which she was easily able to carry out while attending college, she freelanced more and eventually landed a job that pays 30k per month. And she's not even out of college yet. Rajan also tried her hand at streaming on Twitch, where she talks about different areas of interests. Through ad revenue and donations, Rajan earns about $100 dollars per month when she streams consistently.

With students eager to experiment and monetise their skills using all the platforms available to them, the internet has become their playground. The freedom to indulge and invest in yourself and your interests has garnered a lot of attention from the student community.

Shefali Rajan

"My course is quite compatible with the freelancing gigs I undertake. So it's easy to juggle both studies and work. Apart from the financial freedom, I love working in the industry, which gives me a perspective on the theory I study in college," says S Chaithanya, a student, copywriter, content writer, and freelance editor for movies. She earns a total of 10k per month, enough for her to have hassle-free college days in Bengaluru. She is in the Media department of Christ University studying Communication and Media, English and Psychology.

Shouldering their finances is a huge goal for students. Part-time jobs during college give students financial independence, inculcating in them the value for money and how best to spend it while also easing their career anxiety. With creativity and hard work, students are learning how to use social media for their benefit rather than mindless scrolling. Isha Jahnavi, who won the beauty pageant Miss Teen Beautiful, is a yoga instructor, and a busy student juggling a triple major in Psychology, English and Journalism at Mount Carmel College. "I have multiple sources of income from the yoga classes, my bootstrapped business, and the books I write," says the 19-year-old, adding that this trend of student entrepreneurship will bring a generation of independent youth with a spirit for change.

The recently-concluded webinar discussion centred around the practice of political art-making

POLITICS is not always muscle-heavy, it's also about things like art, doll-making, commented filmmaker Hansa Thapriyal at the screening of her documentary Outside In at a social justice film festival. And the Majlis Culture Centre in Mumbai was a physical manifestation of this statement.

Operational from 1990 to 2016, Majlis was a broad-based coming together of the like-minded people of the left. "It was at a time when our common beliefs were being put to test by the changes around us. It created opportunities to respond to the changing times... in a wide range of social action, public arts projects, individual works of art, plays and film," says painter Sudhir Patwardhan, via video, on a webinar titled 'Art. Making. And the Moment', where the discussion centred around the practice of political art-making.

Githa Hariharan

The event was hosted by 'reFrame', an arts fellowship programme which, through multiple mediums address the various dimensions of identities, geographies, sexualities, perspectives and experiences. As a part of a series of conversations called 'small-talk' in which artists engage in conversations about some not-so chotti-motti baatein about what they do, filmmaker Vani Subramanian led a panel discussions consisting of Madhushree Dutta, filmmaker and co-founder of Majilis, writer Githa Hariharan and Sneha Ragavan, an art archivist.

Githa Hariharan brought to the discussion the need for continuity, multiplicity, inclusivity and the politics of all that we consider 'art'. Drawing examples from instances of violence we see in India today, she talks of how public installations, street plays and productions are necessary as they help the public articulate and navigate through gender fault lines, caste, community, alleged tradition and alleged morality.

According to Hariharan, there needs to be an overlap of cultural and political spaces, and the need to make art a living culture.

With members of the audience sharing their thoughts, the webinar was rounded up by the panellists pointing out how the "artistic community is bigger than we think" and how it is "bewilderingly diverse", and there's a need to engage in the political art to not only raise awareness but also "challenge structures of authority in different forms."

More than excitement, I also have a sense of fear about SHIVA 143

... says Manvita Kamath, who talks about her upcoming film, her 'bold' role, and being paired alongside Dheeren Ramkumar

Manvita Kamath

A SHARADHAA

IT'S been a while since Manvita Kamath, the actor of films like Kendasampige and Tagaru, has seen herself on the big screen. Her upcoming film, Shiva 143, directed by Anil Kumar, and backed by Jayanna Films, is set to hit the theatres this week. "I think in my case, the anxiety while shooting extends to the film's release too. Though the pandemic did impact the world, I thought it taught me a lot too. The last two years have been a learning lesson for me. Thankfully, this time I took to complete my studies, and it has helped me to think of an alternative."

How is it to have Shiva 143 finally hit the screens? "More than excitement, I also have a sense of fear about Shiva 143. I have done a very bold role, and I'm waiting to see myself on screen. I'm also excited to see how audience would react to my role. The fear comes because the Kannada industry hasn't seen such a bold heroine. Bold is not just about exposing, but also about behaviour. Many heroines from Sandalwood would want to be the next-door-girl or have the 'bubbly girl' image. But with Shiva 143, all I expect is 'hate'. If I make the audience hate me, then the effort that went into the character will be justified. It will also be challenging to erase that hatred in the next film. So there is a fear and I hope that the 'hate' tag will not be attached to my name forever."

A still from the film

Shiva 143 is an adaptation of Telugu hit film, RX 100, and does Manvita worry about comparisons with Payal Rajput, who played the role in the original? "Definitely. But I wanted to make sure I rise above comparisons. After the audience watch the film, they will come to know that I'm not imitating anybody, and have given a different treatment to the character."

Shiva 143 marks the debut of Dheeren Ramkumar, and he is the latest actor to come from the Rajkumar clan. How was it to star opposite a newcomer? "To be honest, I have manifested it. I was on Facebook during the launch of Kendasampige, and around the same time, Dheeren had put a lot of photoshoot pictures. At that time, I felt he was definitely a hero material, and if at all he is taking the acting plunge, I wanted to work alongside him. After 5 years, I became his heroine."

So how was it to get into the skin of a character like Madhu in Shiva 143? "I was just there as an actor, and I have justified my behaviour. Such shades ask us to behave in a certain way. Acting is nothing but behaving, otherwise, we can't express ourselves. I will be happy if I am half successful in playing that character. I also have to prepare for the other sector of the outcome, and plan to recover my image," she says.

Manvita, meanwhile, is also looking forward to Rajasthan Diaries, which is releasing soon.

Will Smith's biopic back in development post Oscars slap

CE FEATURES

ACTOR Will Smith's biopic is reportedly back in the pipeline. Netflix, which had suspended talks over a film on the actor's life following the Oscar slap controversy, is reportedly planning to resume the negotiation.

A source told The Sun that in the wake of the Oscar issue, Will was left out in the cold by the streaming platforms Netflix and Apple TV+. "He has since apologised and stepped out of the spotlight for a lengthy period. With this in mind, it is broadly agreed enough time has passed to let the dust settle. It has been made clear that discussions can be started again about a biopic which Netflix were interested in," the source added.

According to Aceshowbiz.com, the slapping issue and the fallout will be part of the biopic's storyline. Smith slapped comedian Chris Rock at this year's Oscars for comparing his 50-year-old wife Jada Pinkett Smith's shaven head to GI Jane's buzzcut.

He stormed the stage to slap Chris before tearfully picking up the best actor award for his role in King Richard, which is about the father of tennis icons Serena Williams and Venus Williams. He then issued an apology via video online last month and said he was "deeply remorseful.

Mahima Chaudhry to essay Indira Gandhi's confidante

CE FEATURES

MAHIMA Chaudhry has joined the cast of Kangana Ranaut's Emergency. She will essay the role of author Pupul Jayakar, who was Indira Gandhi's close friend and also penned a biography on the late prime minister.

Kangana portrays Indira Gandhi in Emergency. The other notable characters include Anupam Kher as the revolutionary leader J P Narayan and Shreyas Talpade as Atal Bihari Vajpayee.

Talking about Mahima's character, director-star Kangana Ranaut said, "Pupul Jayakar was an author, a very close friend of Mrs Gandhi and has also written her autobiography. Even though the film is a first-person account, it is not a film where somebody is the narrator. Mrs Gandhi's interactions with Pupul are the most soulful. They shed light on how she confided her deepest darkest secrets to Pupul Jayakar. This makes her character an important person in the film called Emergency."

Mahima, who's returning to films after beating cancer, shared, "Working with Kangana is an experience because she wears so many hats. She is directing it herself and producing it. Pupul Jayakar was Mrs Indira Gandhi's childhood friend so my scenes are the ones where you get to see the non-political side of this great statesman and controversial political leader during the time of Emergency."
